Storm Dumps Foot Of Snow

The Sierra winter has finally arrived.

Monday's snow storm added to the 5½ inches of snow deposited by the Thursday dumping brings the February total to eighteen inches, according to figures given the Sun by Henry Toccalini of the Truckee Ranger station.

Additionally, Prof. John James, Tahoe Basin climatologist, reports that the two storms have brought the best skiing conditions of the winter to Lake Tahoe Basin.

Toccalini notes that the total precipitation for February stands at 28 inches approximately eight inches above the normal of 19.66.

However, he described the snowfall as slight compared to last February. He told the Sun that his measuring stake recorded only 14 inches of snow Monday morning, compared with last February's reference point of 72 inches.

Huge 'Ski Circus' Bid Rejected

Many of the existing and potential Lake Tahoe ski areas lie side by side and the few skiers who have skied from one area to another the hard way-by climbing a lot-have dreamed of the day when they would be connected, European style, by a "ski circus" of runs and lifts.

That dream was shattered last week by the announcement by Alan Ewen, president of Alpine Meadows, that a tentative offer to purchase Alpine Meadows, Tinker's Nob, portions of Squaw Valley to the north, the Twin Peaks area, and the soon-to-be-developed Ward Creek-Alpine Peaks area has resulted in no agreement and negotiations have been terminated.

The principals involved in the proposal were not released nor the amount offered. Mr. Ewen added, however, that other organizations have shown an interest in the possible purchase of the company and Alpine Meadows directors will consider any substantive offers which are made.

Not involved are the ski area, the 26 lifts and the facilities operated by Squaw Valley's Alex Cushing, but the Valley holdings of Wayne Poulsen and Paul Avery reportedly are.

Also involved in the transactions, according to sources, were the Olympic Village hotel, the Blythe Olympic area, and other facilities built by the state for the 1960 Winter Olympic Games and which are now leased to private operators.

The new development would have created a complex stretching from near Donner Summit in the north to the northwest shore of Lake Tahoe in the south. Initial investment by the unnamed American group, it was learned, is said to be in the area of $40 million. If and when future negotiations are successful, it would result in the biggest concentration of ski facilities in the United States.

Corbin Resigns Top School District Post

John S. Corbin, superintendent of Tahoe – Truckee Unified School District, submitted his resignation to the school board last Wednesday night, but the matter was held "in abeyance" until all five members of the board can be present to consider it.

Corbin cited "personal and health" reasons for resigning from the post he has held for the past 14 years. The resignation was to be effective February 1, 1971.

Acting superintendent Wes Sauby noted to the Sierra Sun that various placement agencies have been contacted regarding a replacement for Corbin. The district plans to hire an associate superintendent July 1 to work with Corbin until the retirement date; the associate will assume the superintendents job at that time.

Presently, the district is screening applicants for the job of principal at Tahoe – Truckee High School, Sauby added. About 30 applications have been received for the post which has a filing deadline of March 15. The school board is expected to act on hiring the new principal at its April meeting.

In other action last Wednesday night the school board:

— decided to enter negotiations with Dr. James C. Davis of the University of Nevada Research and Educational Planning Center to undertake a master plan study of educational needs within the district.

— accepted a bid of $2,803 from Hoffman Chevrolet, Colfax, for a new four-door sedan to be used by the district superintendent.

— approved an agreement with Truckee Sanitary District for the installation of a $16,211 sewer line extension from the high school to the elementary school. Both schools are expected to hook-up to the line when weather permits. Septic tanks currently are used by both schools. The district will be reinbursed for part of the cost of the line when the area becomes part of a sewer district, expected to happen in about seven years.

— agreed to hold the district's 1970 summer session in Truckee instead of Tahoe City as it has done for the past nine years. Sauby said the change was necessitated because of maintenance to be performed at the Tahoe City School. "Maybe we'll hold it in Kings Beach next year," Sauby added.

— denied a claim for personal injuries filed by George C. Madden. The man claimed he had been injured in a school bus accident December 8, 1961 and had asked for $97,800 settlement. The county counsel advised the district to deny the claim because the bus driver had not been at fault.

— decided to send a copy of the district's new drug and narcotics policy home to each parent.

— Discussed attending the National School Boards Association 1970 convention scheduled April 11 to 14 in San Francisco.

Oil Spill At Incline Creek

INCLINE VILLAGE (AP) - An oil spill from a ruptured hose on a 1,000-gallon tank has been halted, but not before some of the oil flowed down Mill Creek and into Lake Tahoe.

The spill, from a tank owned by Nevada Paving Co., apparently began late Saturday or early Sunday. Company owners Jim Thornton and Bob Spitzer said there was some indication the hose was cut.

Workmen said an undetermined amount found its way into the creek and eventually into the lake.

Joseph Sheehan Dies After Long Coma In Hospital

Joseph Sheehan, 24, who for seven years remained in a deep coma in Placer General Hospital following an auto accident near Roseville, has died.

The young man was born in Truckee, lived for several years in Tahoe City, graduated from Tahoe-Truckee High School, and was injured while a student at Sierra College.

Attendants at the hospital said he passed away February 15 and his death was almost physically unnoticable. Neurosurgeons had diagnosed in 1962 that Sheehan had massive brain damage and might never regain consciousness.

A rosary is set for Feburay 17 at 8 p.m. in the chapel of the Truckee-Tahoe Mortuary, Truckee. Funeral mass will be held February 18 at 11 a.m. at the Corpus Christi Catholic Church in Tahoe City with Father Ronan Brennan conducting the services. Burial will be at the Trail's End Cemetery, Tahoe City.

Sheehan is survived by his mother, Mrs. Pauline Sheehan, El Segundo; two brothers, Daniel Paul of Sparks and Thomas Patrick of El Segundo; and a grandmother, Mrs. Edna Phillips.

Voters To Decide Tuesday On 'Crowded Classrooms' Issue

During the past month many open public forums have been sponsored by the Citizen's Committee for Passage of the School Bonds in a concentrated effort to inform the community of the need for more classrooms in the Tahoe-Truckee Unified School District.

Those persons actively involved in the educational project are: Jack Houlgate, chairman; Mrs. Mazie Carnell, Lake Tahoe chairman; Mrs. Carol Onorato, Olympic Valley chairman; Mrs. Jeri Wickersham, Homewood area chairman; Mrs. Anita Ormsby, Dollar Point chairman; Mrs. Carole Donnelly, Truckee chairman; Mrs. Denise Stein, Donner Lake chairman; Mrs. Lucille Quilici, downtown and east Truckee chairman; Mrs. Jean Chapman, Gateway chairman; Mrs. Sally Frazier and Mrs. Diane Morrison, Kings Beach co-chairmen; Mrs. Robert Maughan, Soda Springs chairman; Mr. Ed Zucchini, Floriston chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sutton, staff; Mr. Leon Lucchesi, staff; Dr. William Donnelly, speaker; Dale Freeland, speaker; and Zeph Rose, speaker.

On February 24 school board trustees will ask district voters to approve an increase in the interest rate from five to seven per cent on $1 million in unsold school bonds. Funds from the bond sale at the higher interest rate will permit the construction of the new Rideout Elementary School three miles south of Tahoe City and an eight-classroom addition onto the Truckee Elementary School. These projects appear necessary to relieve a critical classroom shortage which has caused overcrowded conditions at Tahoe Lake School and Truckee Elementary.

According to John Corbin, superintendent of the school district, double class sessions are likely to be scheduled for next fall if the bond election fails. Corbin said every available facility at both schools are now being used for classrooms and administrators have been forced to reduce curriculum so a stronger basic program could be offered.

Rex Anderson, principal at Truckee Elementary, revealed that an unexpected 20 per cent increase in enrollment this year forced him to use the nurse's office at times for audio visual storage, music practice, speech therapy, and for psychological sessions for children with problems. Also he had to use his own office for music practice and the kindergarten room was converted into the library.

Enrollment figures show a total of 560 pupils attending classes this year at the main school building plus a double-session kindergarten, two first grade, a second grade, and a special class for mentally retarded youngsters at the administration building in downtown Truckee.

Specific construction proposals by the school board call for an eight-classroom facility with restrooms, a library, and a music room, costing an estimated $351,336.

At the Tahoe Lake School in Tahoe City fall enrollment figures show 612 students had to be crowded into 19 classrooms, with a double-session kindergarten in operation each day. School officials point out that the optimum class size is below 30 pupils and many of Tahoe Lake presently exceed that number. Plans for double sessions for many grades are now being discussed in light of the increasing resident growth rate in the area.

To relieve this critical condition which directly affects the quality of education received by the children school trustees propose to build a new elementary school near Timberland. The new school will have eight classrooms, a kindergarten room, an office unit, library, kitchen complex, regulation sized gym - multipurpose room with music and stage areas, and playgrounds and equipment, costing the district about $762,863.

Corbin explained that the new school is necessary because class size in the kindergarten and primary grades is regulated by the California Education Code and Tahoe Lake has reached the maximum allowable limit but school population is expected to increase yearly by over 60 students.

It has also been learned that in an effort to encourage adequate classroom space throughout California the state has instituted a program of withholding state school assistance funds from those districts where classrooms are overcrowded or there are double sessions.

This assistance amounts to $130 per pupil per year, or approximately $260,000 last year to this district for operating expenses. As of February 1, 30 per cent of the funds for kindergarten will be withheld. If the kindergarten classes are not put on single sessions by February 1, 1971, all funds for the kindergarten children will be withheld. The lost revenue from the state will have be borne in the operating budget in one of two ways or a combination; reduction of service or increase in the school tax base.

SERVICE AWARD BESTOWED – Jack Houlgate of Truckee was presented with the "Honorary Service Award" of the Truckee Elementary School PTA by president Carole Donnelly at a meeting Monday. Houlgate was cited as an aggressive community leader who had been actively involved in the Sierra Hotline, Action Committee for Youth, Citizen's Committee for Vote Yes on School Bonds, Nevada County Library Project, Civil Air Patrol, and Truckee Lion's Club. A contribution of $25 in his name will be funded to the PTA's honorary life membership program which assists deserving students in furthering their education through student loans, scholarships, and fellowships. – Sun Photo

Del Oro Game Could Decide League Title

The Tahoe – Truckee Wolverine cage squad downed two more Pioneer League opponents last week to cinch at least a tie for the league championship.

The top-rated basketball team defeated Colusa 52–40 in the Sierra College gymnasium Wednesday and then traveled to the Zebras' home court to roll over Lincoln 40–34 Friday.

With an overall 19–3 season record the TNT squad has also been invited to participate in a cage tournament at Yreka in March. Eight top high schools who are contenders for their own league titles are asked to play in the tourney.

With only two remaining league games left in the season, one February 20 against Del Oro here and a second February 27 against Wheatland there, the varsity cagers boast a seven win, one loss league record, Colfax is second with five wins and three losses.

In the game with Colusa the Wolverines continually shut off the big guns from Colusa by playing a tight man–to–man defense. The Redskins, falling behind from the start, managed only 16 first–half points as the Wolverines never relinquished the lead.

The Truckee Cub TV squad lost to Colusa 35–37.

In Friday's clash at Lincoln the Wolverines trailed 17–16 at the intermission, then capitalized on the Zebra's turnovers and protected their lead until the end.

Bill Kinzie totaled 12 points and Doug Lindsey 10 for Tahoe–Truckee. The junior Wolverines won their match 56–43.

Two Die, 11 Hurt In Mishaps

Two men were killed and 11 persons injured in area accidents last week, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Ronald Wayne Davis, a 27-year - old Scotts Valley truck driver was drowned when the load on his rig apparently shifted, causing the tractor-trailer to overturn into a drainage ditch near Sierraville February 9.

Patrolmen said Davis, who was hauling Army equipment from Herlong Army Facility, was pinned in his vehicle which backed up water in the drainage ditch.

The other fatality was Joseph A. Butte Jr., 22, of Daly City, who was killed when the small foreign car in which he was a passenger ran off Interstate 80 at Floriston last Saturday evening. He was ejected from the car as it rolled over.

Driver of the vehicle was identified as Brian Lee Platt, 21, a private stationed at the Oakland Army Base. Platt told investigating officers that he and Butte had driven to the Sierras to ski. Platt apparently fell asleep at the wheel and allowed the car to drift off the roadway.

Six persons were injured in a five-car collision on Interstate 80 last Friday night during heavy traffic and chain control.

Taken to Tahoe Forest Hospital following the incident were Lloyd Silverstein, 15; Chris Veitch, 16; Stephen W. Veitch, 42; and Emmet Cashin, 46; all of Atherton. They were treated and released.

Also injured, but refusing medical attention were Sue Webber, 19 and Deborah Elizabeth Au, 19, both of Belmont.

The incident occurred when the first four victims had stopped their vehicle on a curve on the right shoulder of the highway to fix a broken chain link. Another driver, Michael John Walker, 19, of Lodi, apparently lost control of his vehicle on the snow-slicked roadway and collided with the parked car. Subsequent cars involved in the crash were driven by Brian Oscar Brechtel, 36, of Redwood City; Wyatt Morton Allen, 25, of San Mateo; and Deborah Au, 19, of Belmont.

Sheila Ann Herriman, 19, of Carson City, was taken to Tahoe Forest Hospital by a witness when her car apparently went out of control on Acid Flat Bridge near Floriston last Friday morning. She was treated and released.

Martha Ruth Garza, 22, of Sacramento, and Shiela Iverson of Boreal Ridge said they would see their own doctors about injuries sustained last Saturday when the Garza vehicle and an auto driven by Dale Elmer Waderich, 42, of Vallejo, collided on Interstate 80, 3000 feet East of the Soda Springs intersection.

Conrad Emmett Wainscott, 56, of Kings Beach and Daniel Frederick Kane Jr., 26, of Oakland were injured last Thursday morning when the vehicles in which they were riding collided on Alpine Meadows Road, 70 feet east of Bear Creek Rod No. 3.

Both victims told the investigating officer that they would see their own doctors.

Kane allegedly was passing some stopped motorists on a curve when the Wainscott vehicle appeared and the two vehicles collided.

Officers Nab Auto Thieves

Two Sacramento youths were booked into the Nevada County Jail last Thursday on a charge of auto theft.

The young men, William Gregory Pollard, 21, and Joe Williams, 19, were apprehended by the California Highway Patrol on Interstate 80 near the Emigrant Way off-ramp.

Allegedly, the youths were stopped because they had filled the car with gas in Reno, but had not paid for it. A subsequent check revealed the vehicle in which they were riding had been stolen in Sacramento last Wednesday.

The youths were transferred to the Sacramento jail last Friday.

Mountain Men Plan Dinner

The Squaw Valley Volunteer Fire Department will sponsor its first annual "Search and Rescue Squad Benefit" dinner February 20 from 7:30 p.m. to 2 a.m. at the Bear Pen restaurant in Squaw Valley. A minimum $2 donation is asked.

The menu will include spaghetti, salad, garlic bread, wine and coffee. Continuous live music will also be provided and prizes will be awarded. All proceeds will go toward the purchase of mountain rescue and search equipment for the department.

This new division meets every Tuesday at the fire station to train in the various techniques of mountain search and rescue, hoping to have an outfit trained and operational by spring.

Close contact will also be maintained between the two county sheriff's offices, U.S. Forest Service, fire departments, four-wheel-drive clubs, pack stables, snowmobile operators, and utility companies.

Sierra Sun Observer

Once again, as so often happens in a diversified community like Tahoe–Truckee, the people are called upon to stand together and act in unison for the good of all.

In this case it is the school bond issue, and a yes vote next Tuesday is necessary to provide critically needed elementary classroom construction.

Tahoe – Truckee Unified School District encompasses a huge geographical area in two counties, much of it forest and mountains and lakes. The area's population is spread out in small settlements and residential areas, with three larger towns being centers for the region – Kings Beach, Tahoe City, and Truckee.

In some ways these towns are self–sufficient, providing necessary services for their people, but in a larger sense are completely interdependent. Fire protection, sewage treatment, airport and hospital service, electricity and water supply are all examples of cooperation within the larger community that crosses population boundaries of the three smaller towns.

Perhaps the most vital of all these districts is the public school system. It's program of education is a resource that transcends all boundaries and yet is dependent upon the will of the local people for its very existence.

Too often we are compelled to say, "No more taxes!" That cry was never more valid, but to inhibit education as a means of lowering taxes not only ignores sensible priorities but makes a mockery of the whole system. Why spend billions on defense, foreign aid, space exploration, the war on poverty, urban renewal, or anything else if our youngsters are not properly schooled and prepared to carry on after us? There is a strong element of man's survival instinct involved here, and failing to teach our children all that we possibly can goes against that instinct.

Double sessions and abbreviated educational programs in the elementary schools of our district will be necessary in the immediate future if this school bond issue fails to pass.

We don't have time for second guessing or hand–wringing over what "should have been." A backward step now – defeat of this bond, for whatever reason – could be catastrophic. We must pass it, together, and then plan ahead for other needs and other problems.

The responsibility, as always, lies with the people, and they have two tasks to perform: 1. Go to the polls next Tuesday. 2. Vote yes for passage of the school bond question.

Anything less would amount to rejection of responsibility to our youngsters, and that is betrayal.

Harry Beyer Resigns Post

Harry Beyer of Soda Springs submitted his resignation as a board member of the Truckee–Donner Recreation and Park District at their regular meeting held February 12. Beyer was appointed to the board in January of 1969, to fill William Curran's position.

Mr. Beyer stated he is retiring because of business obligations which will keep him in the Bay Area a great deal of the time.

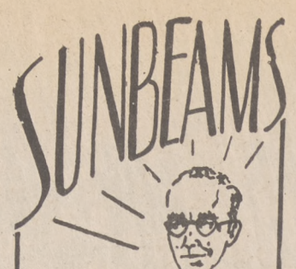
Applications will be accepted for this position until March 1 and interviews will be scheduled for the March 5 meeting. The board will then make a recommendation to the board of supervisors for their approval.

Teen Sits In On Park Board

At the regular meeting February 12 the Truckee - Donner Recreation and Park District welcomed to the board Chuck Barber who will represent the young adults of the community. Chuck was appointed to represent the teenagers by the Tahoe-Truckee High School.

The board decided to have a representative from the local youths at their last meeting. James Brehler, principal of the high school, stated this position will be an elective office on the ballots this spring. Chuck Barber will fill the position until lections are held at the high school.

SUNBEAMS



By WALTER M. BARRETT

The indictment of a dozen deputy sheriff's in Berkely the other day, charged with violating the civil rights code, in our opinion, struck another low blow at law enforcement.

It is becoming more and more apparent that officers of the law are serving a lost cause when they are subjected to arrest in the pursuit of their duties and are ridiculed and abused by the very people who often demand law enforcement to protect themselves.

There is probably little doubt that some officers go far beyond the call of duty in making arrests, but from the pictures shown of the riots at the Berkeley park episode last year, when officers were outnumbered more than 100 to one by the rioters, it would be extremely difficult to determine who was innocent and who was not. In attempting to break up the trouble, there were onlookers and curious individuals who were nabbed and probably temporarily held. Some may have even suffered bodily injuries. But the riot was quelled by the deputies, a job which they were sworn to do.

This incident was only one of many in which law officers have been the object of attacks. A question was recently asked of a prominent entertainer if he had respect for officers and his answer was typical of the times. He quickly replied that officers deserved no respect. He did admit, in further questioning by the master of ceremonies on the TV program, that he did have respect for the law. How, then, can you have respect for the law and not the man chosen to enforce it?

We think that some of our higher courts are largely responsible for the breakdown. Frequent examples have shown that too often the outlaw is more entitled to the protection of the laws than those who are designated to enforce them. The average citizen, we believe, is no more respected by the courts than the most flagrant criminal. Laws which were designed to protect the innocent have become safeguards for the guilty and if you think the lawless elements of our once-wholesome society are not taking full advantage of the situation all you have to do is check the news from day to day. We believe law enforcement officers must have the protection of the law instead of the ridicule and abuse which they often suffer.

Candidates Soon To Air Deep Concern

If you've noticed the calendar lately, 1970 is a year that ends in an even number - and that means it's an election year.

Which means the political types soon will be out expressing deep concern about your problems and, incidentally, soliciting your votes in June.

Nevada county voters will help fill plenty of offices - from county government positions to governor and U.S. senator on primary election day June 2.

Between Febraury 23 and March 20, the last filing date, anyone who has aspirations for an elective office will be visiting the county clerk's office at least twice - first to get nomination papers, then to return them with the needed signatures and some cash.

Candidates don't get to run for free. They have to plunk down a filing fee of two per cent of one year's pay for the office they are seeking. The exceptions are district attorney and Superior Court Judge, which for some reason require only a one per cent filing fee to get in the office.

In addition, candidates must get between 20 and 30 supporters to sign a nominating petition.

Arthur L. Kennerson has filed a declaration of intent to be a candidate for judge of the Truckee Judicial District.

The declaration of the self-employed resident of Donner Lake marks the first competition which has developed in the county judicial election. Judge Fosten Wilson, incumbent, also has signified his intent to seek reelection to the Truckee post.

Other announced candidates in the county include Leo Todd, who will seek the Superior Court judgeship; Mel Hedrick, who is a candidate for county supervisor from the fourth district; Harold T. (Bizz) Johnson, seeking re-election as representative of the 20-county Second Congressional District which includes Nevada County; Elton T. (Bub) Tobiassen, who is hoping to be re-elected as Nevada County assessor; and Thoe A. (Ted) Kohler, who is seeking re-election as county clerk-recorder.

Lions Extend Eye Project

Members of the Truckee Lions Club have offered to extend their sight conservation project to include needy children in East Sierra County.

"A great big 'Thank You' " to the Truckee Lions is in order, notes Rivana Fitzgerald, public health nurse for Sierra County.

Last Tax Relief Check Is Mailed

One $70 check, the last payment to a Nevada County resident for the one-time Homeowners Property Tax Relief program was mailed last Friday, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy announced in Sacramento.

The payment represents a rebate on 1968-69 property taxes. For subsequent years, eligible applicants may qualify for $750 exemptions on the assessed value of their property for local property tax purposes.

No additional checks were issued for residents of Placer County.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, Sierra Sun:

In reply to the Negro doctor's letter which appeared in the February 11 issue of the Sierra Sun, I would like to submit the following thoughts.

I am sorry that Dr. Marsh and his wife were unable to secure accommodations for the night at a local motel the night of January 2, 1970. I hope they were more successful elsewhere that evening. I do not believe there is rational justification to turn a person away from a hotel on the basis of his color. I think, however, that Dr. March came face to face with the rality that this area is no "land of Oz" unaware of nor untouched by the struggles in the rest of the country.

The problems of racial discrimination is one not easily resolved in this country. I regret that the struggle between the races exists; but, I must accept the fact that it does and proceed from there. I want peace in my country; I want people of all races to have freedom and the ability to shoulder the responsibility that goes along with that freedom. My travels throughout the United States and my experiences as a social worker in Oakland have shown me that these goals are not easily attainable.

Certainly, harmony, is not going to be achieved as long as people allow bitterness to grow from personal incidents. Reason becomes clouded and one end product is the hatred which feeds the fire of irrational destruction. Dr. Marsh should realize that this mountain area has seen very few Negros pass through its portals. I went through the school system here without once having a Negro classmate. Perhaps the only Negros the three teenagers in the motel had ever seen appeared on their television screen. And how much is the cause of the good, hard–working, law–abiding Negro served by such black spokesman as Eldridge Cleaver, Stokley Carmichael, H. Rap Brown, Bobby Seale, and other past, present, and future spokesmen of violence?

Can we ever get together? I think it is inevitable. There exist men and women of both races who are able to control their bitterness and work together toward harmony. They are able to maintain an optimism which spreads hope to the rest of the nation. Great sacrifices have already been made by men of courage who have struggled to keep reason their dominant force for motivation. Are Dr. Marsh and others going to let this cause be buried with the men who have always been men big enough to accept the challange and make the sacrifices which bring victory to the right concepts?

I believe in America and I believe the good people of both races will rally and overcome the enemies of reason and understanding. It is a difficult battle, but someway, somehow we have got to win.

Editor, Sierra Sun:

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter was sent to Mrs. Dean Lawrence, supervisor for Nevada County).

On behalf of those of us who do oppose the Lakeworld Development in Truckee, I would like to thank you and Mr. Buchanan for trying to see that careful planning is introduced to this part of the county. It seems that "good for the economy" is a slogan that is used to cover up decisions made in haste for a small group of developers and against the public interest.

We are primarily concerned with the impact this plan will have on Trout and Alder creeks. The residential lots, in a good many cases, have frontages comparable to sluberbia. Since septic tanks are being approved for them and percolation in glacial morraine can be very poor, both streams and the wildlife they support can become contaminated. Lakeworld is currently applying to the Water Resources Board for permission to divert Trout Creek to a lake and then return the water to Trout Creek. Fish management people are concerned that aresultant rise in water temperature would be conducive to over growth of algae and reduction of the trout population. Fishing in Trout Creek is limited to those under 16. It is the only fishing stream within safe walking distance for most of the children of Truckee.

The deer population will also be victims of this development. Any hope that the migratory trail can be preserved is whistling in the dark according to several game management specialists. When people move in, deer move out except to raid garbage cans and then be destroyed because they create a nuisance.

In view of the speculative nature of this development and the speed at which older subdivisions are not being filled in this area, the decision to allow a change in the general plan should be reviewed and continued until the new planning director arrives.

It might be of interest for you to know that the three who "spoke for Truckee" were partners in a large subdivision started four years ago and with fewer than twenty comes completed and occupied.

Mrs. Roberta Huber

Has our local PTA also given up the battle and joined the ranks of permissiveness that is sweeping the country? I've been to PTA meetings that showed films on alcoholism; I find it hard to believe that our local PTA is sponsoring a "wine tasting party."

I am not a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union nor am I opposed to wine tasting parties – provided they are sponsored by organizations not directly associated with young people. Possibly I'm too old–fashioned in my thinking that there should be some public organizations that maintain their standards.

Think of the many past years parents and teachers have spent teaching the "horrors of alcohol" and now the PTA is endorsing the use of it. How many years before the PTA endorses the use of marijuana?

Isn't this a rather classic example of the "double standard" our young people today are speaking out against?

Editor, Sierra Sun:

The governing board of the Truckee – Donner Lake Historical Society wishes to commend the architect for his forethought and good taste in preparing plans to renovate the old Truckee jail and restore this structure to its original state, Circa 1875.

The historical society heartily approves of this restoration project and plan to assist in this worthwhile project in any way possible.

Whereas: the board of directors of the society goes on record in favor of the plan to restore the outside of this building as is, with the exclusion of the skylight, but . . .

Whereas: the cells in the Truckee jail have a unique historical significance, being one of very few of this type that are still intact at this time.

The historical society does not under any circumstances support plans to go through any of these cells for the purpose of access to the upstairs. Renovation of the interior of this building should be made in such a way as to keep these cells intact.

Whereas: heating ducts have already been installed near the front of the building, we suggest that the "inside staircase" be placed in this general area and if necessary use part of the sheriff's office and the drunk tank in order to leave the cells intact.

We do plead and beg the parties in charge of this project to consider these facts and make every effort to preserve these uniquely historical cells.

are now being accepted. Responsible families with good credit and jobs may qualify for Tony Evans' famous "Take Over Plan". Over 2,000 Nevada families were provided fine automobiles from our used car lot which specialized in handling repossessions for banks and finance companies. Now this same convenient, low-cost method is available for obtaining mobile homes. 10 wides, 12 wides, 20 wides, and 24 wides are or will be available to qualified buyers. If you would like to get on our list come in and see us or mail the coupon below. Tell us what your housing needs are — our plan should provide a good home for you at a monthly cost which is less than the rent you are now paying. Remember, rent receipts will never build you an equity.

Sure we all look back fondly on the past, and grandma's cooking is one of our most pleasant memories. But you can bet her memories are a lot different . . . like that old woodburning stove with the hot spots that scorched the food, and the hours spent waiting for the oven to heat up, and, of course, the backbreaking chore of scouring and scrubbing after each meal. Well, times change and so do grandmas. Today they treat their grandchildren to that great "grandma-style" cooking in fast, economical, self-cleaning electric ranges and ovens.

Eve Popovich and Charlotte Harris had a marvelous time in the islands for the past three weeks and were treated royally by their host and hostess, Alex and Hazel Stewart. Haz stayed over for awhile but Alex is back too. Their only complaint is that the prices are very high for almost everything over there. They are both happy to be home again and ready to settle down to business.

Elton Tobiasson, our erstwhile county assessor, was by last week as he was to be guest speaker at Lion's Club. We chatted about taxes (what else?) and he feels they have now reached the point in most cases of leveling off so maybe there won't be any shocks again next year when you receive that bill.

Saw the plans for Truckee's Main Street at the meeting last Monday and I'll say they are very impressive. There was another meeting scheduled for February 16 and if there was a good turn-out of volunteers, the plan may get on its way. Everyone is aware of the hard work involved ahead but doesn't anything worthwhile take time and labor? Anyone having anything constructive and helpful along these lines can contact Stephanie Anderson at Cabona's and they will find an eager ear. Her enthusiasm is contagious.

Had occasion to visit with Wes and Alvin Waddle at the latter's home in Auburn last week and they have a truly pretty and comfy place. Auburn is very beautiful this time of year. Reminds me so much of parts of southern Oregon. Spring is really just around the corner though so won't make any nasty comparisons just now.

Dan Cheyney of Kaiser Aluminum came by my home Sunday after he had been tramping around on his acreage on old highway 40. He was a little dismayed to find someone had placed some fresh stakes and other survey markers on his property and the reason isn't at all clear to him. Anyone knowing about these stakes may call me and I can relay the message to Dan. If we can't determine that they have a useful purpose to him, he will remove them shortly. This land was formerly owned by Reg Smart.

It was a real pleasure this weekend to watch Jim Reese dancing at the Coolie Corral. He honestly has magic in his feet! It's been a long time since I've seen someone actually do the splits right along with the rest of the fancy footwork. We believe he could have a career in dancing if the right persons spotted him.

Did you read about the poor fellow who spent a fortune ridding himself of bad breath and then discovered that nobody liked him anyway?

Georgianna King is up this week and is selling her Donner Lake home to Evelyn Alexander. She had neck surgery recently but is fully recovered and looks just fine. Says she'll be moving from Morgan Hill to somewhere near Pleasant Hills soon.

At this writing (Monday) it looks as though we have a whopper of a storm coming in. Thought my poor little house would blow right off the hillside this morning.

"Restoration of Truckee" is a terrific idea. It has been a long time in the coming, glad finally someone is taking steps instead of just talking about it. Good Luck!

The John Loustlets were up from Oakland last weekend. John tells me that he and the wife are going to close their cleaning establishment during the Easter holidays and take a trip to Japan. Sounds great, John!

Four of the five MacMurray children have received letters from one of the Servicemen they had sent Valentines to. It is difficult to say who was the happier: the servicemen who received the Valentines or the proud children who heard from the servicemen. I think Operation Valentine was a good project, with joy at both ends!

The past week was a little hectic for yours truly. Three and a half-year-old son, Jac, got himself trapped in the town's public phone booth. Unable to open the door he screamed for help. Sixteen-year-old Katy Funk heard his cries and rescued my wayward waif.

Another family left town this week. The Arnold Brandts and their three children left for Los Angeles. I wonder what the attraction is there? Truckee school should be a lot less crowded now that seven children have left in the past month from Floriston alone!

Lake Releases Reduced To Aid In Bridge Repairs

Lake Tahoe releases into Truckee River have been cut sharply at the request of California Division of Highways for repairs to bridge footings just below the outlet gates at Tahoe City.

The minimum flow of 50 cubic feet of water per second (cfs) into the Truckee needed to maintain fish life in the river will not remain at that low level long.

Claude Dukes, federal watermaster, said he granted the division of highways request to cut the river back to minimum flow reluctantly. He had been dumping water out of the lake at near the top flow the river will carry because the lake has been near the maximum agreed elevation of 6,229.1 feet of sea level.

Flows were cut back to 50 cfs Wednesday, Dukes said, but enough preliminary work has been completed and he will kick up outflow to 600 cfs at 5 p.m. today and up to 1,200 cfs at the same time Friday. That is the level he hopes to hold outflow – baring excessive precipitation in the mile-high lake basin – until April 1 when he hopes to have the surface down to 6, 228.

At that level Dukes feels he can handle the spring runoff in the basin without causing any basin flooding as well as keeping the river downstream from getting out of its channels.

Historic Guide To Truckee-Tahoe

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the twenty-second in a series of excerpts taken from "Edwards' Tourist Guide and Directory of the Truckee Basin," published in 1883 by W. F. Edwards, former editor of the Truckee Republican.)

Donner Lake was the scene of one of the most thrilling, heartrending tragedies ever recorded. The very name of Donner is flooded with sorrow and terror to every one who has heard one mite of its tale of destitution, lonliness and despair. It is a tale that has been repeated in many a miner's cabin, by a hunter's camp fire and in many a frontierman's home and everywhere has been listened to with bated breath.

In the winter of 1846 the Donner party enroute for the golden harvest fields of the Golden State, whose fame for fruitfulness, healthfulness and beauty had tempted so many thousands to leave homes in the states and venture, with their families in search of the precious metal, reached the shores of the lake that now commemorates their suffering by bearing their name, just in time to be overtaken by a terrible snowstorm that literally engulfed them, in its soft and treacherous folds.

Through trackless forests, verdant but pathless valleys, over ragged barren mountains they came, down into this, for them, the valley of death. Ninety souls comprised the party, men women and children that came to Donner Lake the last days of October, 1846. Almost a month earlier than usual had the Sierra donned her winter habiliments of snow. The party were prisoners and baffled, wearied disheartened, the bright hopes of a few weeks previous all but gone, they prepared to pass the winter of this, to them, fatal ground. Provisions were scarce and shelter there was none, save one cabin built by a former party of emigrants that came near perishing in the same place. Cabins were built and covered with the hides of cattle which had been killed and their meat put away for future use. Crowded in their hastily and ill-prepared cabins, they could not but feel gloomy and despondent. The lake abounded with trout but they declined to be caught on the appliances at hand and soon the lake became ice-bound and this effort to produce food was abandoned.

Day after day, with aching hearts the poor imprisoned wretches gazed into each others faces in blank despair. With scarcely a hope for success, with almost certain death staring them in the face, parties were made up to try to reach the valley and bring relief. It was death to go and absolute death to remain. Party after party was sent out and finally some reached Fort Sutter, the majority fell amid the endless drifts and perished in the merciless storms. Those who remained behind hoped and starved, lingering from day to day, listening, waiting to hear the crunch of a footfall on the snow, now 30 feet deep, that would indicate succor was coming.

Starvation faced them. The hides of the cattle that had been spread over their roofs, in lieu of shingles, were taken down and eaten. Mr. C. F. McGlashen in his "History of the Donner Party" thus describes the method of preparing: The green raw-hides were cut into strips and laid over the coals, or held in the flames until the hair was completely singed off. Either side of the piece of hide was scraped with a knife until comparatively clean and was then placed in a kettle and boiled until soft and pulpy. There was no salt and only a little pepper and yet this substance was all there between them and starvation. When cooled the boiled hides and the water in which they were cooked became jellied and exactly resembled glue. The tender stomachs of many of the little children revolted at this disagreeable diet and the loathing they acquired for this substance still exists in the minds of the survivors.

They gathered up the old castaway bones of the cattle - bones from which all the flesh had been previously picked - and boiled them until they actually would crumble between the teeth and were eaten.

"A Swiss Night" will be the theme of the February meeting of the Lake Tahoe Ski Club when they meet at the Olympic Village Hof Brau this Friday, February 20. This will be a party for adult and children members and friends with a Swiss dinner a la Martha Fragniere being served at 6:30 p.m.

Dinner will be followed by a yodelling contest and an ice skating session at Blyth Arena. The dinner will be preceded by a no host cocktail hour starting at 5:30 p.m.

RSVP's should be made as soon as possible to party chairman Nikki McManus at 583-5080 or Sue McCafferty at 583-3305. The admission price of $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children includes the skating session and the rental of skates.

Spending several days in San Francisco this week are Bill and Norma Parson of Squaw Valley.

Mrs. Jack Holley of Dollar Point enjoyed a sun vacation last week when she visited her mother, Mrs. Marjorie MacNeur, in Palm Springs.

Amid cries of "double," "are you sure you don't have any diamonds," and "I would have bet that East had that ace," forty North Tahoe amateur bridge players much enjoyed a six night long tournament held at Sunnyside Lodge which was concluded on Sunday evening. Players competing in the tournament were required to play three rubbers of bridge on three different nights of their choice. Gracious sponsors of the tournament were Les and Judy Edinburg.

Pat Hodel was winner of first place honors and was closely followed by Ruth Taylor in second place and Les Edinburg who overcame stiff opposition to take third place. Others making high scores were Dave McBride, Joe Joynt, Chick McBride, Ray Huston, Evelyn Surprise, Ron Lucky, Pat Cross, Chris Christy, Jack Semmens, Bobby Taylor, Chris Bonino and Jeanne Spitsen.

Other players enjoying the matches were Dick Shively, Lynette Bechdolt, Bill Briner, Bill Scott, Darryl Fenley, Mike Mahaffey, Renee Masters, Lillian Topol, Len Ericson, Lois Ericson, Rosemary Lindsey, Katherine Smith, Bill Parson, Norma Parson, Don Wilson, Lorry Wilson, Judy Semmens, Duane Perata, Elaine Kahn, Harry Surprise, Sue Dwyer, Gerry Wickersham, Dorothy Lindstrom, Jean Joynt and Don Lindstrom.

Plans are being made for other bridge activities as well as for duplicate play.

Planning a golfing and sun vacation of several days in Phoenix, Arizona, are Jim and Audrey Brehler of Agate Bay and Bob and Marilyn Fugazi of the Highlands.

Eric Reuter, son of the Dick Reuters of Squaw Valley, noted his fifth birthday February 13 and celebrated with a party for young friends at his home.

Skiing the slopes at Squaw Valley this week are Jimmy Schaeffler and several classmates from Robert Louis Stevenson School in Monterey. They are guests at the Squaw Valley residence of Ray Huston.

Jimmy is the son of world famous, all-around snow and ski expert Willy Schaeffler.

Hee and Elaine Kahn of the Highlands are spending several days this week vacationing in San Francisco.

Members of the Ladies' Guild of the local Corpus Christi Church who were in attendance at the appearance of Bishop Fulton Sheehn in Sacramento on Tuesday evening were Donna Ernsdorf, Dolores Sheehan, Naomi Miles, Lorayne Wood and Pat Harder.

Therapist Teaches Patients 'How To Live'

By STEVE KECH
Sun Staff Writer

Physical therapy to regain lost motion or to teach a patient how to live with what physical limitations he has was recently initiated at Tahoe Forest Hospital in Truckee.

Charles E. Street, registered physical therapist in charge, notes that a "physical therapist is basically a teacher on a one-to-one basis."

Many times Street and his assistant Mrs. Connie Kiersted, start seeing patients on a daily basis while the patients are confined to the hospital, the frequency of visits diminishing as the patient begins recovery.

Street says that one of the primary responsibilities of the therapist is psychological – to reassure the patient that through a generous amount of effort on his part, he will get better. Street also tries to "minimize the use of machines and gadgets."

Preparatory measures for the physical exercise phase include heat and massage.

A graduate of Stanford University in Palo Alto, Street has been a physical therapist for 18 years. "When I first started working with patients, 60 per cent of them were polio cases. I haven't seen one polio case in the last six years. Most of the patients we see now have sprained neck injuries from automotable or industrial accidents, commonly, but mistakenly, known as the whiplash."

Treatment for this type of injury includes the application of various forms of traction to the neck and spinal column.

Also, because of the recreational activities available at Lake Tahoe, many of Street's patients are skiers with orthopedic muscle and joint problems. They need to regain motion and muscle strength, he points out.

Both in- and out-patients are treated at the facility with ages ranging from children to geriatrics, notes Mrs. Kiersted, who is a graduate from the University of California and was employed at O'Conner Hospital, San Jose, prior to coming to Tahoe.

Assisting Street and Mrs. Kiersted is Mrs. Mary Lehner.

Among the "gadgets" used in the treatment process are a diathermy machine, one of the latest deep heating techniques; whirlpool baths; an ultra-sound form of deep heating that can be highly localized; a shoulder wheel for chronic bursitis cases; a traction machine; and a portable electric muscle stimulator which can move muscles electrically if the patient is unable to do so by himself.

"Our intention is to bring up the level of care, including physical therapy, at Tahoe Forest Hospital to one comparable with any hospital anywhere," Street emphasizes.

The TFH physical therapy program was begun last January 2 to serve all of North Lake Tahoe.

$2500 Chamber Request

The executive committee of the Truckee-Donner Chamber of Commerce last week sent a grant request for $2500 to the Nevada County Chamber of Commerce to assist the local chamber in its expanded calender of promotional events and expenditures, according to Gordon Reddall, chairman of the committee.

Reddall noted that the membership has grown from 55 to 170 in one year. Budget items outlined in the request include advertising, brochures, directory, plaques, historic site markings, art festival, bicycle race, Christmas decorating contest, dog-sled races, fireworks, fish derby, fish plants, fly-in golf tournament, membership barbeque, sail and ski, snowmobile races, Donner Memorial wagon train, and a winter carnival.

Airline Service Gains Support

The Nevada County Board of Supervisors recently prepared and passed a resolution supporting Holiday Airlines' application to service the Truckee - Tahoe airport in Martis Valley.

Also Gordon Reddall, manager of the airport, has circulated a popular petition on behalf of the airline in support of the application.

The next step, Reddall said, was the scheduling of a hearing before the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Jeffrey Whitacre Earns Promotion

Jeffrey B. Whitacre, 18, son of William R. Whitacre of Truckee, has been promoted to the rank of Army specialist four at Ft. Campbell, Kentucky.

Bi-State Agency: A Bold New Concept

By JACK LIND
Special Sun Correspondent

The job that J. K. Smith takes over next month is hardly one that many people would be inclined to envy him.

Smith, a tall, angular red-haired man, has been hired as the first executive director of the new California-Nevada Regional Planning Agency.

He is scheduled to step into the $27,500-a-year job sometime in March when the joint bi-state agency comes into being.

Most people agree that if he can pull off the job, he'll easily be worth every penny of his salary.

The stakes are high: Smith, who for the past 6½ years has been executive director of the Denver Regional Council of Government, will be in charge of putting together a staff of professionals who will, by and large, be responsible for the future development of the Lake Tahoe Basin.

It will, everybody agrees, be a staggering, man-killing job that will require great diligence, inary imagination and a steely hand.

It will also require a good deal of diplomacy, patience and understanding of the myriad problems indigenous to the Tahoe basin.

Can the agency, in fact, control the lake's development and can it be instrumental in creating an even more beautiful basin which takes into account a proper ecological balance?

"It depends," says Ray Smith, who has long been active in planning at the basin, "on how gusty the agency will be. The 10 members of the agency will still have parochial interests, although the premise (was) to create a broad regional thinking, beyond the purely local approach. Whether it is possible remains to be seen."

Dave Warner, vice president of the Western Division of Boise Cascade Properties Inc., developers of Incline Village, is a bit more optimistic.

"We intend to give the utmost cooperation to the bi-state agency and all other governmental agencies with jurisdiction in the lake basin," he said. "That has been our policy all along.

"Lake Tahoe is the kind of area that deserves close cooperation on both sides of the lake.

"We are confident that the new agency will provide the coordination and the leadership to make the basin an even more beautiful place than it is now."

Many people are, in fact, optimistic about the success of the agency, but nearly everybody agrees that the road that led to its formation was a rocky one, indeed.

The regional agency is unique in at least two respects:

- It is one of few - if not the only - bi-state agencies in the country with broad legislative powers.

- It has these legislative powers although its 10 members are appointed, rather than elected by the people (although all of them are appointed by elected officials, and some of them were elected to the county boards that appointed them to the agency).

It is the latter fact which, in some minds, has brought up the question of the constitutionality of the agency's very existence. Even though the joint agency was created by the California and the Nevada state legislatures, ratified by the U.S. Congress and signed into law by the President, some think it is unconstitutional.

(Placer and El Dorado counties have filed suit against the California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency, which is to become part of the bi-state agency, asking that it be declared unconstitutional.

Among them is William V. D. Johnson, a conservative businessman who is now serving his term as a supervisor from El Dorado County and whose family has been involved in cattle ranching in the basin for many years.

"It (the creation of the agency) probably is an inevitable procession toward the socialization of this country," he mused darkly. "It is against our representatives form of government."

He, in fact, deplores the spending of millions of dollars he thinks has been poured into studies of regional planning at the basin (although he admits he has nothing concrete to base his estimate on.)

Johnson, whose views are typical of some, concedes that local authorities have been making errors in the past, but he thinks, nevertheless, that the counties, and the city of South Lake Tahoe are perfectly capable of handling their own affairs for the protection of the lake.

It's a fairly narrow parochial view which even some of the developers in the area eschew.

Instead of the joint agency, Johnson would like to see the creation of two counties in the basin, one for each side of the lake, in California or Nevada - or a single county covering the entire basin. Thus far efforts in this direction have failed.

The idea of creating a regional bi-state planning agency with teeth in it has been kicking around for a long time.

It all started modestly enough with the creation of the Tri-County and Bi-County Planning Commissions, both of them outgrowths of the aggressive Lake Tahoe Area Council.

In 1960 the two commissions merged into the Tahoe Regional Planning Commission, which named a special Technical Advisory Committee and which developed a number of plans for the proper development of the basin, culminating in the "1980 Tahoe Regional Plan," and exhaustive document describing in great detail the methods and controls needed for the orderly development of the future.

The work of TRPC was, in fact, widely commended at the time, although at first only Ormsby County officially approved.

This, in turn, led to the passing in the respective state legislatures of a bill setting up a bi-state Joint Study Committee with the task of approaching the problems of the lake on a basin-wide basis. The Study Committee, in March, 1967, proposed the creation through a compact of a bi-state agency with broad powers to regulate the development of the basin.

California's version of the compact was enacted that summer; at the same time, the California Lake Tahoe Planning Agency was created. Nevada lawmakers enacted a similar bit which was signed by Gov. Paul Laxalt on Feb. 18, 1969.

If credit is due, much goes to Placer County Supervisor William Briner and South Lake Tahoe City Manager John Williams, who burned the midnight oil writing the language, which, in the end, became part of the bill sponsored by California Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg that created the California agency, first of the two to come into existence.

As it stands today, the California agency is made up of one appointed representative each from Placer and El Dorado counties and from South Lake Tahoe (the only incorporated community around the lake), plus two appointees of the governor, one of whom is appointed at large, and the other is the head of the state's natural resources department.

The Nevada agency consists of one representative each from Douglas, Ormsby (now Carson City) and Washoe counties, plus the governor's two appointees.

All 10 will become members of the new super-agency which, in all probability, will go into effect sometime in the middle of March. Already, they have held monthly joint meetings, but so far they have accomplished little together.

One reason is that, until now, the two agencies have essentially gone their own ways.

The California Agency had nearly two year's lead time on the Nevada agency, but in the opinion of some critics, it has, by and large, not been very effective.

It has had no professional staff whatever, has had little money to work with and has, in the opinion of its critics, done little more than approving an interim plan which is not much more than a patchwork of existing rules and ordinances of the respective California jurisdictions.

Even John Williams, who helped write the legislation creating the agency, complains that there has been a lack of direction.

Others suggest that the bickering that has taken place from time to time inside the agency has been the result of conflicting parochial interests.

"Some say we have done an adequate job, others say we've done nothing," says Bill Briner, who is a member of the California Agency and was, for years, chairman of the old Tahoe Regional Planning Commission.

He has tried for some time to get the California Regional Agency to adopt a large portion of the Placer County land use and zoning regulations which are widely regarded as the best county-wide ones in the area, but he has had no luck.

The agency has, he says, established rules of procedures as well as set down general policies, but little has, so far, been done in the way of detailed land use, zoning and enforcement powers.

"One of the problems of the agency has been the education of its own members," says Briner, an affable, pipe-smoking resort owner near Tahoe City. "What is planning and what is zoning and how do you go about it?

The agency did adopt the Placer County master plan, but it is, according to Briner, "nothing more than a map" - a framework for the text that lists all the specifics.

Perhaps one reason for the lack of substantial progress is that distance prevents the respective county boards from taking an overly active interest in the basin. Auburn, the county seat of Placer is 90 miles from the basin; Placerville, the seat of El Dorado County is 80 miles away. (The county seats of the three Nevada counties are also outside the basin.)

The Nevada planning agency has been in existence only a year. It adopted an interim report on 'goals and policies' in June and in July it hired Planning Consultants Ray Smith to conduct a detailed general plan study of the Nevada Tahoe region.

The plan has just been submitted to the agency and includes a written 123-page narrative plus three maps which include the five required plans. In addition there are 60 maps, plus detailed data on such matters as soil characteristics, drainage elements, topography, zoning, transportation and other aspects of the lake basin's ecology and use.

It is expected to be approved by Feb. 19 to become final.

"We were actually waiting for them to get going," says a member of the California agency. "They have had the technical staff to do the job."

NEWS FROM NORTH TAHOE PUBLIC UTILITY DISTRICT

Bids on construction in Placer County Sewer Assessment District A-54 will be opened at 10 a.m. March 10 in Auburn by county supervisors. The district includes the south half of Agate Bay, Flick Point, Carnelian Bay and all of the lakefront parcels between. There are 446 parcels to be assessed, 70 per cent of which are subdivided lots. The estimated average cost to North Tahoe Public Utility District property owners is $2,450 per parcel. This is based on the total project estimated cost of $1,347,890. Raymond Vail and Associates, engineers of work, have estimated total construction costs at $845,274.50. Property owners will be notified of their assessments based on the total project cost.

There is a good possibility of the assessments being lowered.

SAD A-54 property owners will be notified of a North Tahoe PUD informational meeting on March 9 or March 16. Vail representatives, your utility district directors and a representative of Wilson, Jones, Morton and Lynch, bond counsels, will be at the meeting to answer any questions.

North Tahoe PUD directors have applied to the U.S. Economic Development Administration for federal funds to help pay for part of the construction, but the amount will be determined later. The amount of the proposed grant was not considered when computing estimated lot assessments. If the funds are granted, however, lot assessments would be reduced in most cases.

The Placer County Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids in the public good or the bid of a contractor who has been delinquent or unfaithful in any former contract with the county.

District directors called a special meeting on Feb. 11 almost on an emergency basis to explore the district's capacity for sewage through the joint treatment plant at Tahoe City. Directors unanimously decided to ask the Placer County health department to survey future sewage capacity needs of the district in light of major real estate developments planned within the next year and other sewer system hookups coming this summer and next. The district has reserved a capacity of one and one-half million gallons of sewage per day through the Tahoe City plant, but with future development, and continuing infiltration problems, this may not be enough a year or two from now. Directors want to get an early start on solving any problems which might arise and to head off another building moratorium or an unexpected increase in sewage flows without being ready to take care of it.

TNT Skiers Win At Mammoth Meet

Nine high schools competed in excellent ski conditions in the 45-gate giant slalom with Tahoe-Truckee the victor in the California - Nevada Interscholastic Ski Federation meet at Mammoth Mountain Saturday.

Team standings were: Tahoe-Truckee, 382; Skyline of Oakland, 308; Lee Vining, 280; Portola, 238.5; Ponderosa, 216; El Dorado, 207.5; Placer, 138; George Whittell, 118; Redwood of Redwood City, 52.

Boys results, one through 10: Tom Wise, Portola, 52.8; Russell Brett, Tahoe-Truckee, 53.4; Bill Brehler, Tahoe - Truckee, 55.2; Rich McCoy, Levining 56.1; Scott Hawkins, Tahoe - Truckee, 57.7; Randy Cook, Lee Vining, 58.0; Stan Hill, Ponderosa, 58.8; Doug Loorz, Skyline, 59.0; Mike Rowden, Portola, 59.1; John Scoville, Tahoe - Truckee, 59.5.

Girls results, one through 10: Babe Street, Tahoe-Truckee, 53.8; Jesse Oldfield, Lee Vining, 56.5; Debbie Herrero, Skyline, 58.3; Judy Price, Tahoe-Truckee, 59.2; Debbie Tahoe - Truckee, 59.2; Debbie Everson, Tahoe-Truckee, 59.8; Jennifer Aberley, Skyline, 59.9; Candy Oldfield, Lee Vining, 60.4; Pat Northrop, Tahoe - Truckee, 60.5; Didi Lawrence, Lee Vining, 61.8.

Trem Talk

By SUSIE FISH

Tahoe-Truckee traveled to Sierra College last Wednesday where the Wolverines hosted a game against the Redskins of Colusa. JV began at 6:30, and even though two rooters' buses and the pep band cheered them onward, the final outcome saw them behind 60 - 62. However, the varsity came back with a victory of 52 to 40, with Jim Baxter hight point man.

Friday night TNT visited Lincoln. Cheered on by enthusiastic rooters, the Cubs whomped the Zebras 56 to 43. And to insure a first in the league, the varsity too, downed Lincoln, 40 to 34.

Be sure to come to the Tahoe-Truckee courts this Friday and Saturday when we will meet the Del Oro Eagles and then the Reno Ramblers with JV at 6:30 p.m. and varsity at 8:00 p.m. Admission is free with a student body card.

The Tahoe - Truckee ski team bused to Mammoth Friday where they remained through Saturday to compete in the race hosted by Lee Vining. Girl racers were: Babe Street, first; Judy Price, fourth; Debbie Everson, fifth; Patti Tilton, sixth; Pat Northrup, ninth. Boy competitors were: Russ Brett, second; Bill Brehler, third; Scott Hawkins, fifth; John Schoville, tenth; Jamie Mannetta, twenty-second. Both squads played first, and overall results showed the nine schools playing in the following order: Tahoe-Truckee, Skyline, Lee Vining, Ponderosa, Portola, El Dorado, Placer, George Whittell, Redwood. This Saturday they will travel to Eureka Ski Bowl.

This Saturday the TNT wrestling team will participate in the Chico Tournament. Currently Brent Wissenback has won all of his matches and coach Stein expects all the wrestlers to have great results in the coming meets.

Last Saturday the senior class sponsored the "Sweetheart Ball" in honor of Valentine's Day. Music was provided by "Jonah." At 9:30 p.m. the announcement of Mister and Miss TNT was made. Chris Wiser and Lorna Leininger had been awarded the titles, and Miss Leininger was presented with a bouquet of red roses. Ten candidates had been nominated and the winners were chosen by secret ballot. Congratulations.

Friday the 13th the eighth edition of the Blueprint was handed out. Due to a lack of support the staff has only enough funds to print one more issue. Looks like we'll be back to the old mimiograph version.

Today the general student body was entertained by Major J. Hemming of the British Academy of Fencing and Mr. Bruce Tompkins of the British Amateur Fencing Club. We were given explanations and demonstrations on the various types of fencing.

The teen center is coming! Plans now show it to be in the old frontier building in Tahoe City. Donations of equipment - including a pool table and a ping-pong table - have already been made. In hopes of raising money, there will be a concert in the old laundromat in Tahoe City, February 21. Admission will be free but a hat will be passed around for donations. A student Advisory committee meets every Thursday evening at Mr. Dale Freeland's home and anyone wishing to help can call Mr. Freeland or an member of the committee.

Local Crab Takes Second In Race

The Crescent City annual Crab Races and Feed were held recently and were attended by Dawn and "Whit" Whitney of Donner Lake.

They entered a large crab under the name of "Donner Demon" which came in second in the first heat of the tenth race. Crabs are placed in the center of a circle on an elevated platform and whenever any part of the crab is off the edge, time is counted. Some never move and others make the 20-inch run in just a few seconds. An entrant named Poor Reno didn't move an inch, living up to his name.

It can be a tricky situtation when the crab grabs a finger before placing it in the circle.

Adult Cagers Battle It Out

Donaldsons Cafe remained the Truckee-Donner Adult Basketball league leaders with a 63-45 win over Tahoe City World in competition last Thursday. Donaldsons is 6-0 at the end of the first round.

Floyd Cooper set up most of the plays to spark the winning cafe quintet. Stan Stancil scored 13 points for the World squad.

In other action last Thursday night the Gas Jockeys defeated Slayden 50-38 with the Jockeys fast break reportedly causing the win. High point man was Joe Straub with 15.

Slayden, led by Walt McCurdy's 15 points, defeated Tahoe City World 47-28 on February 10. Also, Marauders scored 71 to defeat the General American Development Corp. 46 in action that night. Dave Decker gave the Marauders 25 pointers while GAD's Chuck Pincoski sunk 13.

Standings for the leage at the end of the first round are Donaldsons Cafe 6-0; Marauders 5-1; Gas Jockeys 3-3; General American 2-4; Slayden 2-4; and Tahoe City World 0-6.

Ski Club To Sponsor Nordic Championships

Lake Tahoe Ski Club will sponsor the junior and senior Nordic championships this weekend at Tahoe Woods and Boreal Ridge. The meet also will be a Far West Junior National point meet.

Cross country events will begin at 10 am. Saturday at Tahoe Woods, one - half mile South of Tahoe City on Highway 89. Visitors should turn right one block past the Catholic Church and follow the signs.

Boreal Ridge will be the site of the jumping events scheduled to begin Sunday at 10 a.m. Jumpers will compete in 15, 35 and 50-meter contests.

The Tahoe Nordic squad will be led by junior Carl Ruhkala who captured the top honors in the first point meet. Aleta Hendrickson and Susan Ruhkala will head the girls slate.

Coach Richard Rodarte has quoted, "I am certainly looking forward to the meet. The squad has been working hard and looking better every workout. This is a big meet for the team and I am sure they will do a good job.

Nastar Winners

John Ericson of Tahoe City was awarded a gold medal for completing the Alpine Meadows Nastar race Sunday closest to the set course time.

Other winners include: silver medal, Bob Christianson, Tahoe City, and Jim Hunt, Incline Village; bronze medal, Justine Pratt, Incline and Robert Lahde, Tahoe City.

Next scheduled Nastar races are February 18, 19 and 22.

North Lake Tahoe Chamber Pot Shots

By BETTY LAYTON

The Chamber of Commerce is called upon to help coordinate many worthwhile projects. One of these currently in progress is the Heart Fund campaign. Many long man hours were spent mailing letters to residents throughout the chamber's area. Those volunteers helping, under the guidance of Marilyn Fugazi, were Dorothy Introf, Bern May, Jim and Audrey Brehler, Billie Parker, Steve and Wilma Korich, Jeanne and Barbara Spitsen and Bob and Lynann Fugazi. Deductible donations are being received at the Bank of America – it would greatly help if you mailed yours today!

Volunteers working in the chamber office last week were Doris Estabrook, Marilyn Fugazi, Gerda Bernasconi and her daughter.

The Chamber has obtained the heart film, "Twentieth Century Epidemic" for showing February 24 to the Soroptimist Club. It is also available to other organizations for showing.

Chamber of Commerce Committee meetings for the week are as follows: North Tahoe representatives will attend all the Placer County meetings:

February 16 – Executive Committee (officers of the chamber) to review plans and projections for forthcoming events and the Program of Work.

February 17 – OEDP, Tourism Committee of Placer County meeting in Auburn; Placer Co. Promotion Committee meeting, Monte Vista Inn; Dog Sled Race Committee meeting, Truckee – Tahoe Airport, 7:30 p.m.

February 18 – Placer Co. Beautification Committee meeting, Auburn.

February 19 – Chamber of Commerce directors meeting, Tahoe Ski Bowl, highway officials from Dist. 5, Marysville will be present at the meeting and will be discussing highway problems with the Highway Committee prior to the noon meeting; Community Council of Service clubs meeting on scholarships for high schools, 7:30 p.m., Community Center Bldg., Tahoe City; and don't forget to vote for the school bond interest increase, February 24.

February 26 – Meeting on incorporation, sponsored by the North Tahoe Community Club, Community Center Bldg., Tahoe City.

Before you vote, do you study the issues? The average voote will spend less than ten minutes reading campaign literature – most will fail to read even a single piece of literature or news about something they are inclined to oppose.

Can you name your U.S. Senators, Congressmen, Governor, State Senator and State Assemblyman? If you correctly named all the above, you are a rare citizen. Only 1 of 8 Californians are able to do so. According to a recent survey over 20 per cent of those questioned were unable to name more than one.

Modern urban living has alienated us from our government and from our elected representatives. Californians will on November 5 elect many of those men and women who will lead the state and nation into the new decade. How well we choose will greatly determine the quality of life we will enjoy in the years to come.

Any citizen who wants to be effective in politics should vote and work for a political party and it isn't too early to sign up to do your part in the party of your choice. It is the party which nominates the man, not the independent voter. It is the party which finances the man's campaign, not the individual voter.

THE PHONE BOOTH

Just a year ago Valentine's Day one of our telephone people was married in Tokyo—and her relatives in the U. S. heard the ceremony, thanks to the telephone. Kay Reasbeck and her Air Force sweetheart decided not to wait for his return from Vietnam to get married. So she met him when he was on leave in Tokyo, and a Long Distance call was arranged to the bride's home in California where family and friends were gathered. The ceremony—broadcast via telephone circuit—was amplified to the happy group with one of our speakerphones. Love, it seems, with the help of the telephone, finds a way around everything!

APRIL 9

I'd like to remind you that April 9 is the deadline for registering to vote in California's Primary Election. If you'll be 21 years old by election day—June 2—or are new to your community, you must register to be eligible to vote. A new law makes it unnecessary for voters who've moved within their own county to re-register. Such voters can now notify the County Clerk or Registrar of Voters by mail of their address change. Appropriate forms will be provided by the County Clerk. They'll also be available at many of our main public telephone offices where Pacific Telephone will again be providing voter registration facilities.

Our local school bond election for the Truckee - Tahoe Unified School District will be held on this day.

PLEASE REMEMBER TO VOTE

Snow Talk

By VI and CARSON WHITE

A fresh blanket of snow covered the slopes just in time for the weekend, giving a beautiful Christmas card look everywhere by Saturday. Excellent skiing was reported and clear cold weather prevailed.

Sure great to see snow covering those bulbs that were popping through the ground all too soon.

The Eugenia Lary race for Vets was postponed last weekend, but Vet's can enter the Divisional Championship giant slalom at Dodge Ridge March 1. A clinic will be held the day before for race techniques.

Jackson Hole, Wyoming, will be the site of the Wild West Classic as part of the World Cup races next weekend.

Festivities start Wednesday when a trip to the Elk Herds will be made, a Rodeo on Thursday, non-stop training for contestants Friday, the opening ceremonies, the Downhill on Saturday and the Slalom on Sunday followed by closing ceremonies and a wild game dinner.

Does it seem possible that it was just ten years ago today that the 1960 Winter Olympics began in Squaw Valley and lasted ten days?

Can you remember the tremendous changes that took place in that peaceful valley after Alex Cushing was successful in convincing the International Olympic Committee that Squaw Valley was an ideal site for the winter games?

Despite the erroneous reports that were printed worldwide before the bit event: the messy conditions a month before because of heavy rains; the overabundance of snow that fell after the rain; making preparation of courses a monumental job which required assistance from everyone including the Marines; the remarkable opening ceremonies when the clouds parted long enough to let Walt Disney's show go on causing tears to roll down your face from sheer joy as the ballons were released heavenward.

Much of the valley remains as it did then, but the huge speed skating oval and smaller rinks are gone; the areas are now used for parking, the Blyth Arena skating rink is one of the most unusual building designs created for the Olympic and still being used both winter and summer, the spectator centers now house a HofBrau and a theatre, the fantastic jump has deteriorated to ruin, but there is hope that the Far West Ski Association will restore it someday. The Olympic Village, where competitors of all nations stayed under one roof for the first time ever, is used as a convention center, the Squaw Valley Lodge has been enlarged and a gondola swings from it to carry skiers and spectators to upper slopes, many more lifts have been added to accommodate the thousands more who frequent the past Olympic site, and now a new 120 passenger tram takes you up to the top areas in just a few minutes.

For members of the press, officials and athletes, it was the most successful Olympics ever to be held, mainly because all the events except the cross - country runs were centrally located within walking distance, making it possible to view more than one event in a day.

Architect To Prepare Truckee Master Plan

Land planner and designer Faradg Gilan-Farr of Tahoe City will prepare a tentative master plan for the restoration of historic Truckee to present to a Nevada County task force comtoration projects withing the county.

The tentative plan will outline proposed phases of the Truckee restoration program of a local citizen's committee to the county-wide body meeting February 19 at the Nevada Irrigation District building in Grass Valley.

Gilan-Farr and Phil Sprang told the citizens meeting at the Truckee Hotel last Monday night that in order to apply for federal funds for the project, a definite "master plan" should be the first order of business.

Also, they emphasized, this "master plan" should be as complete as possible. They argued that specific programs can be deleted from the plan for monetary or other considerations, but that it is hard to include any project not mentioned in the plan from the beginning.

Financing of the project could come from several federal agencies, but it will be necessary to prove to the government that the project will stimulate economic activity in the area.

Figures mentioned by the local group ranged from $750,000 to $1.5 million with 80 per cent of the cash, hopefully supplied by the federal government.

Groundwork for information to be supplied with the application will be done by several committees listed by Mrs. Stefanie Anderson, secretary of the Downtown Merchants Association, as follows:

Statistics: Stefanie Anderson, Daisy Foote, chairmen; Tiny Mercer.

Property values: Herb Crenshaw, chairman; Phil Sprang.

Engineering and estimating: Duane Anderson, chairman; Les Geary, Harold Jay and Richard Connelly.

Historical: Phil Sprang, chairman; Dorothy Fordham.

Landscape: Joe Aguera.

Architecture: Faradg Gilan - Farr.

Legal: George Pifer.

The next meeting of the local group will be held February 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Nevada County Building, Gateway. All interested citizens have been invited to attend.

Court Cases In Truckee

The following cases were heard and adjudicated by F. W. Wilson, judge of the Truckee Justice Court:

Hollis Brian Tara of Sacramento appeared with his attorney. Allegedly Tara was in possession of dangerous drugs without a prescription. The preliminary was waived and the case was bound over to Superior Court for trial.

Elzie Golden of Sacramento was found guilty of being drunk in a public place. He was credited with time served and asked to leave town.

James Bell of Tahoe City was fined $10 for illegal parking.

Charles Jensen of San Rafael was fine $19 for not having chains on his vehicle in a chain control area.

Michael Bell of Reno paid a fine of $14 for speeding.

Richard S. Nair of San Francisco appeared for court trial for a speeding violation. The case was dismissed in the interest of justice.

Nurse Speaks To Nursery School

Celia Brinkley, school nurse, was the guest speaker for the last meeting of the Truckee Parent Cooperative Nursery School. She explained her duties as school nurse and told the parents of the various facilities available to the residents of Nevada County through the County Health Department.

The children of the nursery school made recent field trips to the hospital and to the post office to mail valentines. And had a Valentine's Day party Friday. Several of the children toured the old jail in Truckee before restoration is started.

Anyone interested in placing their child in nursery school should call 587-3164 or 587-3967.

Bridge Tourney Winners

Pat Holdel, Ruth Taylor, and Les Edinburg placed first, second, and third, respectively, in the first annual Tahoe City Amateur Bridge Tournament at Sunnyside Lodge last week, according to Judy Edinburg, sponsor of the event.

Girl Scouts To Convene

All Girl Scout troops in the Sierra Nevada Council have been invited to attend a special "Thinking Day" program February 22 at the Reno Coliseum from 1 to 4 p.m.

The event includes a pageant about the scouting movement, group singing, and demonstrations by individual troops.

The annual activity is held worldwide and is primarily concerned with promoting and "thinking about" international friendship. February 22 is also the birthday of the founders of scouting, Lord and Lady Baden-Powell.

Local troops participating include Incline troops No. 82 and 27; Kings Beach troops, No. 214, 42 and 124; Truckee troops No. 74, 101, 116, and 62; and Tahoe City troops 53, 130, 163, 120, 172, and 161.

Bug Station Interceptions

The interception of 330 shipments of plants into California infested with serious pests or in violation of plant quarantine requirements was accomplished during January at the Border Agricultural Inspection Station in Truckee.

Inspectors checked a total of 126,680 vehicles, including 119,-183 automobiles and buses and 7,497 trucks.

Significant pests intercepted at the control point included apple maggot, citrus whitefly, cloudy winged whitefly, coconut sacle, coconut armored scale, cotton boll weevil, eastern walnut husk fly, European corn borer, gerbil lesser snow scale, pickleworm, pink bollworm, southwestern corn borer and tristeza virus.

Dollar Cove Plan Rejected

The Placer County Planning Commission has rejected a rezoning application by the Dollar Cove Corp. that would have allowed a multi-million-dollar condominium development along the shores of Lake Tahoe east of Tahoe City.

Commissioners by a vote of 6 to 1 objected to a plan to increase the building density on part of the land between California 28 and the shoreline.

Robert Harmon, representing the corporation, indicated he would have engineers redesign the development and bring it before the commission at a later date.

Landmarks To Be Designated

At a recent meeting of the Nevada County Landmarks Commission Dorothy Fordham, a division chairman, requested the Truckee jail, the Rocking Stone, the Indian ceremonial circle, and the old Capitol building be designated county landmarks.

Also Mrs. Fordham presented a rough draft of a map she is preparing of the Truckee region showing state landmarks, points of historic interest, campgrounds, gold mines, and other sites which would be of interest to tourists or historians.

Teen Concert

A concert to raise money for the new frontier village teen center in Tahoe City will be held February 21 in the old laundry building in Tahoe City.

Featured musicians will be "Richard," now playing at the Hearthstone, and the "Sioux City Zoo," an unusual rock group which has been entertaining at the Squaw Valley Lodge.

Admission is free but a hat will be passed to collect donations.

LEGAL NOTICE

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF NEVADA
BOARD OF SUPERVISORS
MINUTES, FEBRUARY 3, 1970

Meeting called to order at the hour of 10:00 A.M., with all Supervisors present.

Minutes of the previous meeting approved as presented.

The Chairman noted that it was time for a Public Hearing on the proposed amendment to the Nevada County Zoning Enabling Ordinance No. 196, to add an Open Space District.

No one appeared in opposition, The Public Hearing was closed, and the Board referred the matter to the County Counsel to prepare an Ordinance adding an Open Space District, for adoption of the Board.

The Public Hearing on the proposed rezoning of Glenshire Units No. 2 and No. 3 was continued until March 3, 1970, at the hour of 10:05 A.M.

The Board accepted the resignation of Mr. Francis Longo, of the Fifth District, from the Nevada County Planning Commission, and the O.E.D.P. Task Force, with regret. To the Planning Commission, the Board unanimously appointed Mr. Schuyler W. Miles, to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Longo.

Public Hearing held on the pro-City - Grass Valley Justice Courts. Three individuals appeared in opposition, one in favor of the consolidation. The proposal was defeated by a voice vote of three to two.

The Auditor-Controller presented proposed Resolution 70-23 (A Resolution establishing fees for the division of land and bonds under the 1911 Improvement Bond Act), and this Resolution was adopted by the Board.

The Director of the Department of Public Works presented the report of his Department.

Resolution 70-24 (A Resolution authorizing acceptance and recordation of a Deed from James Bancorft and Robert Dunn, regarding the Perimeter Road).

Resolution 70-25 (A Resolution determining and declairing that the public interest, convenience, and necessity of the County of Nevada requires the annexation of certain land on the Perimeter Road, and directing the filing of eminent domain proceedings - Rancho Codornicas Property).

Mr. Todd presented a letter from a Mr. Robert Cook, who prepared the Nevada County General Plan, stating that he feels the proposed Subdivision of the Lakeworld Development Project in Truckee is a logical one for the area concerned.

The County Counsel was directed, by a vote of three to two, to prepare a Resolution amending the General Plan, toward the Lakeworld Development Project.

Resolution 70-26 (A Resolution authorizing execution of an Agreement between the County and the J.F. Shea Company, Inc., for work to be done in Glenshire Units 1 and 2 Assessment District).

Ordinance No. 465 (An Ordinance dealing with Rock Festivals).

Mrs. Sally Lewis appeared representing the Nevada County Historical Landmarks Commission, and upon her request, the Board approved a Budget for this Commission in the sum of $300.

The Board recessed for lunch at 12:00 P.M.

AFTERNOON SESSION:

Board reconvenes, all Supervisors present.

The Hospital Administrator and Paul Byrne, appeared and reported regarding the wiring of the Nevada General Hospital. The Board authorized the Hospital Administrator to proceed with a survey to be conducted by a Licensed Electrical Engineer, to review the wiring situation.

Special Meeting of the Nevada County Sanitation District No. I, held at 2:10 P.M.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss a cost study of charges to be assessed to people outside of the Glenbrook Assessment District, who wish to hook onto the District.

A motion was made, seconded and passed unanimously, to go forth with the survey, and allocate the sum of $1,760 for this purpose.

Meeting adjourns, and the meeting of the Board of Supervisors resumes.

Discussion ensued regarding individuals being taken out of the Nevada County Glenbrook Assessment District, and the County Counsel reported that it is impossible to get out of the District.

The Chairman noted that the time had arrived for the continuation of the Public Hearing on whether or not to abandon a portion of the Pleasant Valley - Mooney Flat Road, within the Lake Wildwood Subdivision.

After a lengthy discussion, a motion for the road realignment was defeated by a vote of two yes, one abstaining and two no.

Matter to come up for discussion again on February 10, 1970.

Miss Sharon Mahaffey representing the Nevada County Planning Commission reported that it is the recommendation of the Nevada County Planning Commission, that the Board zone the Vogt property lying within the boundaries of Lake Wildwood Subdivision as R-1, and read the reasons for this motion.

After a lengthy discussion, the Board voted three to two, to zone this property as R-1A.

The Board recessed for dinner at 5:30 P.M.

EVENING SESSION:

The Clerk presented the Correspondence Lists of January 27, 1970, and February 3, 1970, which were considered by the Board.

The Board accepted with regret, the resignation of Miss Elizabeth George as a Nevada County Member of the Sierra Economic Development District, and appointed Mr. Paul Byrne to fill her vacancy on his District.

Old and New Business considered.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned at 7:35 P.M.

I THEO. A. KOHLER, JR., Co. Clerk & Ex-Officio Clerk, Board of Supervisors, County of Nevada, State of California, do hereby certify, that the foregoing is a true excerpt from the Minutes of the Board of Supervisors Meeting held 2-3-70. IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I hereunto affix my hand and official of said Board, this 6th day of February, 1970.

Lakeworld Granted Plan Change

A general plan change for the Tuckee area requested by a developer was approved 3-2 by the board of supervisors last Tuesday.

The board stayed with its vote of the previous Tuesday when the county counsel was ordered to draft the general plan change. For it were Chairman Willie Curran and Supervisors William Thomas and Robert Long. Against it were Supervisors Ralph Buchanan and Dean Lawrence.

It is the first ch. ge made since the general plan was adopted in 1967. Tuesday's action switches an area between Truckee and Donner Lake from forest environment to urban residential.

A 6,000-lot recreation residential development is planned on the 4,000 acres by Lakeworld Corp., owner of Alta Sierra near Grass Valley.

The action was taken in the morning because, Curran said, the board was ahead of its agenda, and Thomas had to leave in the afternoon. Mrs. Lawrence objected that the matter should have been taken up under the old business agenda item listed at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Lawrence also noted that the man who wrote the general plan did not specifically recommend this change in a letter requested by Lakeworld which was received by the board last week. He showed how a proposal to change the general plan should be studied, Mrs. Lawrence said.

Buchanan said the supervisors "actually haven't had any professional planning advice" and so have no reason to switch from their position two weeks ago of waiting until planning advice was received. The original intent was to await the arrival of the county's new planning director March 1.

"I just don't understamd that if this is a good plan, why it won't pass inspection, why it has to be passed so soon," Buchanan said.

At the public hearing two weeks ago, Lakeworld officials objected to holding this matter until April as the board desired because the firm's option to buy the property would expire before then and would have to renewed or the project would have to be agandoned.

The reason for approving the change wasn't state, but previously Long indicated he supports it because the 4,000 acres to Truckee and adjacent to land already marked urban density.

Supervisors Ask For Updated Report

The Placer County Board of Supervisors last Tuesday unanimously approved the updating of the North Lake Tahoe incorporation freasibility study requested by the members of the North Lake Tahoe Community Club's incorporation study committee.

The move for the study was made by Supervisor William Briner. It authorized the expenditure of $1,000 to bring the William Zion study, originally completed in 1966, up to date.

Mrs. Werner Auer, chairman of the club's incorporation study committee, said another meeting is scheduled for February 26 to organize community leadership behind the issue. The meeting will take place in the Tahoe City Community Center beginning at 7:30 p.m. She added that open public forums will be held in weeks to come to inform the entire region affected by the incorporation plans.

When all the communities are for the North Lake Tahoe Incorporation Study Committee will be elected. Committees will then be appointed to study each phase of the subjects with key members from each community represented.

The area being considered for incorporation, as outlined in the 1966 Zion report, would include the lake area from Homewood to Kings Beach and down the Truckee River to include Alpine and Squaw. The population is estimated at 5,000, according to Briner. The assessed valuation is between $50-$60 million, Briner estimated.

Briner stressed the importance of home rule as the chief benefit of incorporation.

Briner also said the county collects $2 million in taxes at Tahoe and gives back only $1 million.

New Drug Use Policy Aired

The drug and narcotics use policy of the Tahoe-Truckee Unified School District as adopted February 4 has been announced as follows:

"Mr. (Earl) Meixner moved that the board's policy on dangerous drugs and narcotics be:

"That when a child is arrested, during the interim between the time he is arrested and goes to trial and is found guilty or not guilty, that he be put on a restricted curriculum, and be given the same subjects he was taking prior to the arrest; if he is found guilty the Governing Board would make a determination, in executive session, on each individual case on its own merits, after consideration of information from all cooperating agencies. The governing Board would make a determination at that time as to the length of time for expulsion, if that is the Board's decision.

"Motion was seconded by Mr. (William) Conners, and passed with unanimous affirmative vote.

"Restricted curriculum was defined as not allowed to participate in school athletics, after-school activities, attend dances, student government or any other extra curricular activities."

Snow Travelers Meet Tonight

FAREWELL DINNER – Francis Longo, a community leader and former manager of the truckee–Donner Public Utility District for nine years, was honored by his friends Saturday at a testimonial dinner at the Donner Lake Lodge. Willie Curran, supervisor for Nevada County, speaks at the microphone while master of ceremonies John Hemler listens along with Longo and his wife, Muriel. Over sixty persons attended the fete. Former Sierra Sun editor and Truckee–Donner Chamber of Commerce president Carl Briggs was also extended a "friendly farewell." –Sun Photo.

700-Foot Pier Approved

A proposal by Sierra Pacific Power Co. and John and Barbara Keans to build a 700-foot pier at the south end of Tahoe City public beach has been endorsed by directors of the Tahoe City Public Utility District.

Half of the pier to be built on power company land will be open to public use and half to the private use of owners of condominiums planned for a parcel near the outlet of Lake Tahoe.

Directors said they supported the $110,000 proposal because established policy on recreational facilities declares that private interests will be encouraged where possible to provide public access and facilities.

Kearns, who would be the operator and leasee on the public half during the boating season, said that facilities would include kayak, canoe, sailboat and powerboat rentals and sale of fuel.

The power company would provide buoys to limit swimming to 200 feet off the pier and a warning buoy at the 400-foot mark to stop powerboats from coming any closer to shore.

In other action the directors of Tahoe City Public Utility District decided to advertise for a recreational director at a salary of $1,000 per month. He is expected to be hired in time for late spring and summer activities.

The guitar in its earliest stages had four pairs of strings.

CONTEST ENTRANTS - Lake Tahoe and Truckee - Donner areas are represented in pictures of entrants in the "Miss Snowmobile Incline Village" contest. The contest slated for Feb. 25 signals the opening of the Kings Castle $50,000 Snowmobile Grand Prix Feb. 26 to March 1. Incline winner will be the Kings Castle entrant in the national "Miss Snowmobile U.S.A." contest being held during the Grand Prix. Entries close Monday, Miss Roberts, reigning "Miss Sierra Prix. Snowflake, is the North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce entry. Miss Wygal was named Saturday as queen of Tahoe Paradise 1970 Snowmobile Races to be held next Saturday.

'I LOVE IT!" - So said Diane Joy Rushbrooke of Te Aroha, New Zealand, standing left, about Nevada and the United States. "But you live a much faster life," she added. Miss Rushbrooke was the special guest last week at North Shore Rotary Club meeting held at Crystal Bay Club. She showed slides of her native land and told about life there. She is shown with Carson City Rotary past President Stan Warren and Mrs. Warren, seated, and Carlton Karnowsky of the local Rotary. The young lady is attending school in Carson City on a Rotary Club student foreign exchange program and will be here a year. She is a "sixth daughter" in the home of Carsonites Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jacobson. The program was instigated under Warren three years ago. Miss Rushbrooke is the second student to participate. - Incline News Photo

Nevada Plan Last Hearing Evokes Praise, Criticism

By STEVE KECH

CRYSTAL BAY - Developers, conservationists and interested citizens aired both praise and criticism of the proposed Nevada Tahoe general plan at the third public hearing for the document prepared by planning consultant, Raymond Smith.

Suggestions received by the Advisory Planning Commission of the Nevada Tahoe Regional Planning Agency at the hearing were to be considered at a workshop meeting scheduled this morning in Carson City.

One of the sharpest controversaries at Thursday afternoon's hearing in Cal - Neva Lodge concerned a proposed 8,200 dwelling development on 1,300 acres of the 16,000-acre Whittell estate. The remainder of the property would be left in "open space," according to development planners Sherwood Stockwell and Robert Royston, both of San Francisco.

Eric Cronkhite, Nevada State Parks System chief, voiced objection to development of the Whittell land, saying the state legislature has authorized the parks department to acquire approximately 4,000 acres of the estate for inclusion in a Nevada Tahoe State Park.

Approximately $2.2 million currently is available to the park system for this purchase, with more money expected to come from the U.S. Forest Service and possibly the Ford Foundation, Cronkhite noted.

Also, it is planned to incorporate the late Capt. Whittell's home and 500 acres around it into the Nevada Park.

Incline Village developer and vice president of Tahoe Sierra Development Company Don Steinmeyer questioned the commission about the legality of its limitations on density.

He took exception to the commission's figure of 15 dwelling units per acre, down from Washoe County's present multiple residential zoning allowance of 22 units per acre.

Steinmeyer contended that if the 15 units per acre were adopted, developers will cover their land with this density, but if "you adopt a resolution permitting vertical cubage to equal horizontal cubage," more open space would be provided and the ecology of the lake would be preserved.

In answer to Steinmeyer's question, APC attorney Richard Hanna asserted the agency's right to impose additional restrictions according to powers given the agency by the Nevada Legislature. "The agency can exercise its police power to limit the density in zoning for the public good," Hanna related.

Gene Mastin, resident engineer at Incline Village, Inc., said, "We're pretty much in favor of the plan. Essentially we are in agreement." Mastin submitted several written suggestions for proposed changes recommended by IVI.

Don Puente, also of IVI, elaborated on Mastin's proposals suggesting that property sold in one zoning or density should be continued as such in fairness to the buyer. He also advocated that a "super block" of hotels should be constructed at Lake Tahoe rather than allow "strip" hotel developments such as Las Vegas.

Roger Steele, Incline homeowner, pleaded with APC members to "prevent any further rape of the shoreline." He submitted several pictures of bulldozers gouging through the land which he claimed created pollution within the lake and several streams.

Air pollution was another significant topic of those addressing the commission, with most witnesses blaming the automobile as the greatest menace.

Prof. John James, Lake Tahoe climatologist, suggested the commission consider adopting air pollution controls including no burning in residential fireplaces or discharge from industrial smokestacks when

Kings Castle Addition 'Ahead Of Schedule'

Promising a gala opening set July 1, Nathan Jacobson, president of Kings Castle Hotel and Casino, led the ceremonial "topping" ceremony Friday of the hotel's new 290-room addition.

The ceremony, including breaking a bottle of champagne and erection of the traditional pine tree high atop the 11-story structure, was conducted despite a blizzard-like snow storm.

"Actually, work on the structure is 2 1/2 weeks ahead of schedule," said Jacobson who is personally keeping track of each day's progress.

"What's the hotel going to be like?

"It's going to really be a castle, complete with drawbridge entrance and rooms furnished and decorated in Tudor period," said Jacobson.

He explained that everything inside and outside is designed to give guests the "best in comfort, beauty and better taste." He said room furnishings, which are especially designed, run about $2200 per room.

"The headboards go from floor to ceiling," Jacobson continued. "Each room has a windowed bay overlooking the lake with two chairs, a table and a specially designed crown light fixture.

Jacobson said there will be 24 two-bedroom suites and 9 petite suits in the new addition. Six of these will be on the top floor.

Paintings, original suits of armor and fibreglass crests and shields will be a part of the over all decor. Wet bars and color televisions will add to the luxury.

Executive Vice President Louie Kurtz said the Camelot Theater Restaurant will headline such names as Robert Goulet, Frank Sinatra, Buddy Hackett and Tom Jones among others. The opening entertainer has not yet been named.

Three other restaurants and the Excaliber Bar, replica of a jousting arena, will be added features.

Kurtz said also heated driveways and a snow disposal device for the 750-car parking lot will keep the area clear in winter.

JVs Forge On

Incline's varsity cagers didn't fare as well as the Highlander jayvees this past weekend. In fact, the results were completely opposite as the older cagers lost two and the younger sharpshooters notched a pair of wins.

In Friday's preliminary, the local junior varisty squad ripped the Mucker jayvees from Virginia City, 62-42, while in the main event the visiting varsity just got by the upset-minded Highlanders, 68-62.

The Incline varsity couldn't quite get the points when they needed them as the Muckers took a 16-14 lead at the end of the first quarter and held a seven-point spread at the half, 39-32.

Sparked by the 21-point performance of Bob Gallagher, the Virginia City crew managed to stay ahead of the Highlanders and took a 54-47 edge into the final stanza.

Backing up Gallagher was Steve McBride and Rich Edler with 11 points each.

Top shooter for the Highlanders was Charlie Uhrig with 14 points, while Bill Schwab added 13 and Randy Muntifering popped in 10. Greg Gorman almost cracked into double figures for the locals with nine points.

Saturday night, Coach Jack Stephens turned his jayvess loose again at Fernley and the Incline cagers fought their way to a 64-50 victory.

With the win, the jayvees now sport a 9-4 record in Western "A" League action and also broke the individual high scoring mark for the third straight game. The newest record belongs to Chris Crom, who rattled the rim with a fine 22-point effort.

According to Coach Stephens, the local jayvees have really been coming through in the last four games and every member of the team has seen action in the battles.

Fernley's varsity, paced by the 21-point play of guard Don Barnes and the 20-point output of forward Dennis Holden, downed the Highlanders, 69-50.

Incline, now 3-10 in conference clashes, had to play come-from-behind ball after the host jumped out to a 17-9 first - period lead and almost pulled even at the halftime break, 28-26. The Highlanders trailed by five, 48-43, going into the fourth quarter when Fernley out-shot the locals 21-7.

Schwab was high for the Incline team with an 18-point performance. Gorman was the only other player in doubles with 10, each from while Larry Hume was next high with six. Muntifering was held to only three counters. Five points by Keith Faber and four each from Uhrig and Gibby Freeland balanced out the local effort.

Mama Cass, Lee Marvin Enter Race

Lee Marvin and Mama Cass Elliot are the latest entries in the VIP Celebrity Race of Kings Castle $50,000 Snowmobile Grand Prix Feb. 26 to March 1.

They join entrants Don Drysdale, Deacon Jones, Joe Louis, John Brodie, Parnelli Jones, Bobby Unser and Lt. Gov. Ed Fike.

Race coordinator Norman Johnson said plans have been made to either truck the snow into the race area or relocate the races in the event there is not enough snow by the time the races are scheduled to open.

"The race will not be cancelled because of lack of snow," Johnson said.

"It may have to be slightly modified, but the three days of racing will go on as planned.

Fatal Crash 'Not Unusual'

TRACY Calif. (AP) - The only thing unusual about a train-minibus crash which claimed eight lives "was the severity of it-the eight fatalities," says Sgt. Lloyd Porter of the California Highway Patrol.

Sixteen teen-agers, all from the Tracy area except two, were in the minibus last Friday night when it stalled at a crossing and was hit by a northbound Western Pacific freight train pulling 16 carloads of gravel. Two of the eight who scrambled out in time were injured, one seriously.

Another CHP officer said the crossing has eight flashing lights, but no crossing bar.

Other investigators said the van may have stalled because it was overloaded. They said its normal capacity is eight to 10 persons.

Cooper is director, curriculum and instruction branch, Nevada Department of Education. The meeting was held last Friday and Saturday at Cal Neva Lodge. Wilbern, administrator of the President's Council on Physical Fitness was one of the primary convention speakers. He said he found in his travels that the major criticism youth has is "the hyprocracy of adults . . . youths feel there is too much 'do as I say, not as I do' in adult thinking." Emphasis of his talk and of other convention speakers was health, physical education and recreation for all ages both in the community and in education. - Incline News Photo

Buddy Werner Races' Cougars Now First

Led by Jon Knorpp and Chrissy Gurney, the Cougars moved into undisputed first place in Incline's torrid Buddy Werner Race League.

The Cougars and Rams went into Monday's race tied for first place with 2 and 0 records. The Cougars compiled 147 team points to the Rams 125.

In the day's other race, the zed by the hapless Devils 151 to 128. The Trojans now stand at 1 win and 2 losses, while the Devils slid into the cellar with an 0 and 3 record.

Top time of the day was recorded by the Courgar's Jon Knorpp in a fast 26.0 seconds. Jon was followed by Bobby Badertscher, 26.3; Scott Bannister, 27.0; Benji Facciolla, 27.6; Chrissy Gurney and Rusty Lund, 29.7; Jay Steinmeyer, 29.9; Derrak Shandler, 30.0 and George Murray, 30.2.

This week's races will pit the league leading Courgars against the Trojans and the second place Rams against the Devils.

Women Schedule Fashion Luncheon

The Republican Women's Club set March 18 for its annual fund raising spring fashion show. Announcement was made at a recent meeting of the group.

The event will be held at the Crystal Bay Club with the time to be announced later.

Jan Land has been named chairman. She and Christine Christy will be commentators. Fashions will be shown from Gina's of Reno.

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bub. Virginia Hoyt was named publicity chairman for the group.

Attend Course

Deputies from the Incline Substation, Washoe County Sheriff's office last week attended an eight-hour course on sex perversion and deviates taught by FBI Special Agent Dave Loveles of Sacramento.

The course was taught in two four-hour sessions at the South Lake Tahoe Police Department.

Tiller Rites Held In Reno

Diann Reve Jensen became the bride of Larry Alan Tiller Saturday, Feb. 7, during formal rites at Trinity Episcopal Church in Reno. Father James E. Carroll officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dyer Jensen of Reno. Her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Tiller of Incline Village.

Wearing an empire style gown of white surah with high neck and short puffed sleeves, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her honor attendant was her sister, Joan Jensen.

The new Mrs. Tiller is a junior at the University of Nevada where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta Sorority and an ASUN Hostess.

Tiller is a senior at Nevada. He is a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity, Coffin and Key and Blue Key, honorary organization. A member of the Nevada Air National Guard, he left last Saturday for San Antonio, Tex. for basic training.

NOW WHAT? - Joyce Anderson and Joan Cornforth seem to be completely entangled in the Exer-Genie but both contend that those attending the next Booster Club luncheon Feb. 20 will really find out all about the revolutionary exercising gadget. The meeting, open to the public, will be held at Crystal Bay Club beginning at 11:30 a.m. Speaker will be Dean Miller, long an athletic coach and physical education instructor, who invented the exercisor. It is emphasized that business persons are welcome. The meeting is timed to coincide with lunch hours. Also on the program, Al Kuckhoff will introduce some of the members of the Far West Ski Team.

Nevada Plan Recommendations Suggested

meteorlogical conditions indicate it would be harmful; filters for all smokestacks, residential and commercial fireplaces; prevention of dust in construction areas; and limitations on the use of gasoline or diesel-powered vehicles under unfavorable meteorological conditions.

James noted that air pollution at Lake Tahoe is a visual phenomenon and not a health problem such as pollution in many industrial and metropolitan areas.

Recommendations voiced to the commission included the suspension of all building activity until the bi-state agency adopts a general plan for the Lake Tahoe Basin and pleas by certain individuals and subdividers for changes in the specific zoning and use requirements effecting their properties.

George Allison, a Carson City lawyer representing Ponderosa Ranch and Kings Castle interests, asked the commission to zone more of the area around Ponderosa to commercial recreation, deleting two proposed residential areas.

He noted that Bill Anderson, Ponderosa owner, has plans for the area which included riding trails and general open space preservation.

Anderson would, however, like to construct a motel in one area zoned residential by the proposed general plan.

Allison, in representing Kings Castle, sought to have lakefront property now occupied by a restaurant and casino and zoned for multiple dwellings by Washoe County, remain under the R-3 designation instead of commercial recreation as the plan envisions.

Nate Jacobson, Kings Castle owner, said he was disturbed by notification he must remove the restaurant and casino from the property, spending $15 million in the process, and have it revert to commercial recreation usage. He said he plans to construct a 10-story condominium complex on the property.

Joe Littlefield of Professional Engineers' Tahoe Region Committee asked commissioners to consider "open space without buildings if Lake Tahoe is to be preserved in its present form."

He advocated a "trade - off" proposal.

Two students, Ann Cathcart of the University of Nevada and Ron Hildig of Wooster High School, Reno, asked the commission to consider height limitations and possible ecological effects of development within Lake Tahoe Basin.

Tax Hearing

The Incline-Crystal Bay property owners' tax assessments protests hearing before the state Board of Equilization will be held Tuesday, Feb. 24.

The hearing will be held at the Highway Department Building in Carson City. Announcement was made by tax committee chair man Ed Black.

Nevada Water Outlook 'Better Than Average'

RENO – Nevada's 1970 water supply outlook is for slightly better than average irrigation supplies for most of the state, according to C.W. Cleary Jr., state conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service.

Water stored in the mountain snowpack throughout the state is generally near or above average, with the exception of East Central Nevada, near Ely, and the White Mountains above Fish Lake Valley. In these areas the snowpack is below normal.

Reservoir storage remains well above average at 175 per cent for this date, he noted. The valley and lower – elevation mountain soils are well primed from the much–above–normal January rains.

Snow measurements indicate that the Tahoe – Truckee Basin has a 95 per cent–of–average snowpack for this date.

The pack varies within the basin, from below 50 per cent of average in the lower elevations (6,500 feet and lower) to 120 per cent of normal in the Alpine area.

Reservoir storage in this area is excellent at this time.

Lake Tahoe currently has 700,000 acre–feet of usable storage.

VISIT TO FAR EAST - Betty Hitchcock, right, shows Pat Walker how to operate the slide projector before presenting a program of slides on Hong Kong, Macao and Kowloon where the Hitchcock family resided for five years. Occasion for the program was the last meeting of the Fire Sirens. Mrs. Hitchcock noted the area is populated mostly by Cantonese and that there are "marvelous restaurants. She said the ideal time to travel there is from Sept. 15 through March. April meeting for the group will be a potluck dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Black. An Easter Egg Hunt is planned for March 21.

Gaming Debt Threats Cited By Officials

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) - Gamblers who lose their money in Las Vegas have been threatened with violence to pay off their debts to junket operators and loansharks on their return home, a pair of Nevada gambling officials said Wednesday.

Gaming Control Board Chairman Frank Johnson and Jack Stratton, who Wednesday returned from a five-day trip to Boston and New York to investigate junket operators, said some are "pretty damn questionable."

One man filed a complaint with the board saying he had been told "to pay up or else 'The boys' will call on you," Johnson said. Another complained of receiving obscene phone calls in the early morning from a debt collector.

Las Vegas casinos for years have lured planeloads of eastern gamblers with promises of free rooms, entertainment and meals in hopes the patrons would save their money for the tables. There, the odds allow the casinos to more than recoup their expenses.

The trouble, Johnson explained, occurs when shady junket operators load planes with gamblers whose credit would not normally be approved by the casinos.

Proposed regulations to license junket operators and those who collect casino debts will have to be "strengthened considerably" before they are adopted, Johnson said.

Ship Named For 'Ike'

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's third nuclear-powered attack aircraft carrier, to be built at a cost of $510 million, will be named the USS Dwight D. Eisenhower.

President Nixon announced today the huge new carrier with a two-reactor nuclear plant would be named in honor of the late president.

The White House said the carrier is expected to be the most modern warship in the world. Keel-laying is scheduled this spring at Newport News, Va., where Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. will build the carrier. Construction is expected to take five years.

The ship was authorized under the fiscal 1970 shipbuilding and conversion program aimed at modernizing the Navy by retiring overage ships and replacing them with fewer, more efficient vessels.

The Eisenhower is to be 1,092-feet long with a full-load displacement of 94,400 tons. Construction begins during the 15th anniversary year of the Navy's nuclear propulsion program. The world's first nuclear-powered ship, USS Nautilus, got underway in January 1955.

The Eisenhower will be equipped with a naval tactical data system, automatic carrier landing system, an integrated operational intelligence center and automation in such areas as its main propulsion, ordnance handling and ship control.

'Charlie Brown' Glue Sniffer?

WASHINGTON (AP) - Good Grief! Good old Charlie Brown a glue sniffer?

It looks that way. After all, Charlie's got the bottle in his hand when the "Peanuts" gang confronts him. But when he holds up the model plane he's working on. "What a blob, getting us all excited," says Lucy in disgust. And Snoopy wonders: "Why do they call it dope?"

That scene, or others like it, will begin appearing on television screens this year as the Advertising Council - with the blessing of the White House - begins an "unsell campaign" on drugs aimed at children 7 to 12 years.

The campaign, in preliminary sketches, was unveiled Wednesday to a meeting of the National Council on Drug Abuse Education. It's the first segment of an attack on drug abuse that will be aimed also at teens-through-college, parents, inner-city residents and the military.

The aim of the campaign is prevention and that's why it will begin with the grade schooler. It will give them a line to use to put down those who are trying to get them on drugs. At the same time it's designed to give a pat on the back to those who resist.

The Advertising Council hopes to get $53 million in free air time and print space within a year's time, which is considerably more - a spokesman points out - than is spent to advertise the most popular soft drink and the largest selling detergent.

One scene shows a child being offered a marijuana cigarette. "I'm small, he said, "but I'm not stupid."

Another picture shows football star Joe Namath saying, "You kids not messing with drugs, hang in there."

There is a babble of voices and then comes the announcer: "When they ask you why you don't try it, ask them "why do you think they call it dope?"

That, says Willinger, probably will be the battle cry.

The campaign will begin with transit posters - 96,000 of them - around the country on April 1. The phase aimed at the preteens - once it gets White House approval - may begin the same month.

About 1,000 earthquakes a year cause some damage. Some 100,000 can be felt or heard.

Sierra Club: Halt Works

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Major water projects in California should be halted, says the conservationist Sierra Club, until their effects on the environment are better known.

Land use and population are being blindly remolded by the projects because they are so big and far-reaching, directors said.

The California Water Plan, which includes the multi-billion-dollar State Water Project, is already "subjecting both Northern and Southern California to severe environmental stresses," said the club.

Licensing Of Reporters Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) - A member of the national violence commission has suggested that reporters for newspapers, television and radio be licensed by a government agency similar to boards which license lawyers.

Dr. W. Walter Menninger, the only psychiatrist on the 13-member National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, said licensing boards in other professions have helped to weed out "individuals who are totally inept."

"This in no way assures complete perfection of the profession," he acknowledged during a question and answer period after a speech to the National Press Club.

Contending reporters and news commentators may lack the basic understanding of such issues as minority frustrations, and may be inaccessible to the man on the street, Menninger suggested a system of certification, much as teachers are certified by a state board.

Such a board would be established under state law, but certification would be approved or disapproved by peers or members of the news profession.

"This would not necessarily be a threat to a free press," Menninger said.

Bill Would Aid Housing

SACRAMENTO (AP) - The chairman of the Assembly housing committee proposed legislation today forcing consolidation of local housing authorities and redevelopment agencies and creating a state mortagage agency.

Assemblyman Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, said he is introducing 10 bills reforming real estate and construction laws to ease the housing problem of low and moderate income buyers and renters.

He said that in many California cities the efforts of housing authoritites and redevelopment agencies cancel each other. In addition to forcing consolidation of those agencies, Wilson also proposed legislation permitting areawide mergers of housing agencies across county lines.

He said his proposed California Mortgage Agency would be founded by state revenue bonds. Wilson added this might not be an adequate revenue base in today's tight money market and that his committee consultants are investigating other possible revenue sources.

Stanford Ups Living Costs

STANFORD (AP) - Room and board at Stanford University will go up 6 per cent from $1,140 to $1,210 per year next September.

The university said Tuesday the increase is the first since 1966.

With the recent increase in tuition from $2,145 to $2,400 per year, a freshman entering Stanford in September will pay a total of $4,110 per year for tuition, room and board, books, laundry and recreation.

Maid and telephone service in dormitories will be eliminated in another effort to reduce the present $400,000 deficit in the residential program the university said.

Just over half of the 6,221 undergraduates and some 700 graduate students live in university housing. Total enrollment is 11,438.

Comparable room and board rates at other schools are Harvard, $1,300; USC, $1,100, and UC Berkeley, $1,080, a spokesman said.

'Gloomy' View On Housing

WASHINGTON (AP)-Congress has been told that the outlook for housing this year is still gloomy.

Kenneth M. Whright, chief economist for the Life Insurance Association of America told congressmen assessing the outlook that money available for mortages is expected to decline by about $2.5 billion to $25.2 billion.

Housing starts will decline from 1.47 million to 1.3 million, Wright said.

Indictments Deter Recruiting

SACRAMENTO (AP) - Gov. Reagan complains that the federal indictment of police for actions during last year's "People's Park" riot will just make it harder to recruit law enforcement officers.

Reagan was asked at a news conference what he thought about a federal grand jury indicting 10 current and two former Alameda County sheriff's deputies for allegedly violating citizens' civil rights during the violent controversy in Berkeley.

"I can't say that I'm happy about this . . . There just seems to be lately a concerted effort always trying to find, if possible, where did the officials of law enforcement go wrong, and we don't seem to have the same attitude with regard to those who precipitated the violence and the rioting in the first place, and sometimes I wonder how the devil we are ever going to recruit law enformement officers if we, the people . . . are continually knocking them down," he said.

Reagan also had these comments on other major topics:

- A raise in the statewide sales tax of up to two cents for a few months is just one of several alternatives being considered to bail out the financially troubled State Water Project. He also stressed that the state will face "financial chaos" if Prop. 7 doesn't pass at the June 2 primary. This would boost the interest the state can pay on construction bonds which provide the cash to build the massive project.

- He plans no further action on a controversial sale of state-owned housing at Oroville Dam to a man he appointed to the State Youth Authority. "This sale is closed and we have found not one thing wrong," Reagan remarked.

California Will Gain Four, Not Six, Seats In 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) - Because its population growth is slowing down, California will gain only four seats in the House of Representatives in 1972 instead of the six originally forecast, Census Bureau population data show.

The bureau's calculations, based on a July 1, 1969, estimate, indicate the migration of persons from other states to California is not as high as the bureau expected it would be when projections first were issued in 1967.

The actual census of April 1, 1970, will establish the basis for redistributing the 435 House to the 1972 elections.

The new estimates indicate California will gain four seats, Florida two, and Arizona, Texas and Colorado one each. This would make California's delegation the largest at 42. New York would have 39.

New York and Pennsylvania are expected to lose two seats each, and North Dakota, West Virginia, Ohio, Iowa and Wisconsin one each.

The motto of the Gurkhas of Nepal is, "It is better to die than live a coward."

Group Urges Pedestrian Caution

Pedestrains are urged to watch for turning cars when crossing streets - even when crossing with the walk or green signal lights.

The California State Automobile Association stresses that older pedestrains particularly are often struck by turning cars as they are preoccupied with the need for hurrying across the street before the light changes.

To avoid this problem, the AAA motoring organization urges older citizens to always wait for a fresh green light or walk signal before crossing to utilize maximum safe crossing time.

Drivers, too, have a responsibility to signal their intention to turn, says the CSAA, for it is important that drivers cooperate with pedestrains by communicating their intended actions so that pedestrains can react accordingly.

Pedestarins are urged to take an extra moment to make certain that no cars are approaching before proceeding to cross. As part of AAA's nationwide school traffic safety education program, this poster is being distributed to all parts of the country.

Ford Would Modify For New Fuels

DETROIT (AP) - The Ford Motor Co. has told 19 oil companies it will modify its cars to use a pollution-reducing, lead-free gasoline when such a gasoline is developed.

"The petroleum industry and the automobile industry now have an opportunity to achieve the goal of cleaner air," Henry Ford II, board chairman, wrote in a letter to the heads of 19 major oil firms.

The letter, dated Jan. 27, was made public after Atlantic Richfield Co. said it would produce such a lead-free fuel if the auto industry builds an engine to use it.

A Chrysler Corp. spokesman said he would not comment until the specifications of the fuel under discussion are known. General Motors also declined comment.

Lead, added to gasoline to increase engine efficiency, is widely considered a major source of automobile pollution.

Atlantic Richfield said its new fuel would be sold in the fall of 1971 if the automakers had enough new engines designed to use the lead-free gas.

The company said it would make the fuel available first in California because the "problem of air pollution is most severe there at the present time."

3 named To State Board

SACRAMENTO (AP) - Gov. Reagan has named three new members to the State Board of Education, including a 29-year-old woman who once was a school nurse.

The appointees are Mrs. Jeanette S. Ritchie of Meno Park, Clay N. Mitchell of South Laguna and Tony N. Sierra of Calexico.

Their appointments mean Reagan now has named all 10 members of the board, which sets statewide policy for elementary and high schools.

Mrs. Ritchie and Mitchell are Republicans, Sierra a Democrat.

Mitchell, 58, a retired Air Force major, succeeds Dorman L. Commons of Fullerton, whose term expired. He is president of the Orange County Board of Education.

Sierra, 46, is a native of Mexico and succeeds Dr. Miguel Montes of Los Angeles, whose term expired. Sierra is president of the Calexico Unified School District Board of Trustees.

Mrs. Ritchie succeeds Mrs. Michaela Mathiesen of Fresno, whose term expired. Mrs. Ritchie is a registerd nurse, graduate of Stanford University and has been an instructor at San Francisco State College.

She also has done work with dropouts who are members of minority groups.

40 Per Cent Are Draftees

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon says draftees now make up 40 per cent of the Army in South Vietnam and have suffered roughly 33 per cent of the combat deaths in the war.

The figures were released in response to a published report asserting that most of the front line fighting in Vietnam is being done by draftees while regulars are far from the combat zones.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry Friedheim said draftees are not treated differently from other men in service.

"There is no policy to put draftees in the front lines," Friedheim said.

Friedheim said the proportion of draftees killed remains about the same at various time periods selected for study during the war.

By last July there were 36,954 U.S. troops killed in Vietnam, of which 11,946 or roughly 33 per cent were draftees.

As of the end of last September the total number of draftees killed in Vietnam stood at 12,692 or 32.7 per cent of the total.

Nervousness Over The Pill Hasn't Hurt Sales

NEW YORK (AP) - Druggists across the country say recent testimony against birth control pills has alarmed many women but sales of the pill have not lagged significantly yet.

Some pharamacists reported, however, that demand for other contraceptives is up.

Results of an Associated Press sampling indicate it may be too early to assess the impact of scientists' claims before a Senate subcommittee last month that oral contraceptives may be harmful to health.

"Most women buy three-to-six-month supplies, so we won't see an instant drop," noted a spokesman for a Los Angeles Pharmacy. The pill usually comes in batches for a month or more.

"We've had no decline ... but people have been asking whether or not the pill is safe," said a Little Rock, Ar., pharmacist in a typical comment.

Some druggists reported a decline in new prescriptions for the pill since the subcommittee hearings. But they said most women who were taking the pill before the hearings continued to refill their prescriptions.

The pill was named at the hearings as a possible factor in blood clots, cancer, heart disease and other ailments. Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, advised doctors to alert women to possible risks but he also cautioned against "over reacting."

On Sunday Surgeon General Jesse Steinfeld said a growing amount of evidence would indicate other forms of contraception would be safer for some women.

However, he said, "I think the pill has saved more lives than it has cost."

To some women, he indicated, the possible risk of taking the pill may be less than complications such as miscarriages and hemorrhages.

Some doctors say they have noticed an increase in unwanted pregnancies which they attribute to women forsaking the pill.

Will the sales eventually decline?

A Gallup poll shows that 18 per cent of women surveyed who used oral contraceptives in the last three months have stopped using them, largely because of the adverse publicity from the hearings.

But two-thirds of the 895 women between 21 and 45 years of age surveyed believe the advantages of the pill outweigh the risks, the poll said.

Lake Echoes

The snowmobile races sponsored by the North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce were held at Squaw Valley last weekend instead of Truckee. In the women's competition Dorothy Mercer of Incline Beach won two first places and her sister, Ella Mae Porter, won a first and a second with more trophies for mama, Carol Mercer.

Valentine's Day at Serene Lake, Dorothy took first place in the race. Ella Mae didn't compete in this event due to work.

Between races, Dorothy and Gloria Deal attended the Snowdrifters meeting in Reno. The Snowdrifters will hold a snowmobile race on Mt. Rose in March and both Dorothy and Ella Mae will compete in the women's races.

Ina Wright and daughters, Christine and Sandra, of Incline Beach are visiting her parents and relatives in Frankfurt, Germany. They enplaned for a month's visit with the family and other relatives. Ina also hopes to take the children to visit their paternal grandparents in England before their return.

Our sympathy to Audrey Adams and Mary Lyn Welch of Kings Beach on the death at 86 years of their aunt, Maude Mullen, in Carson City January 29. She had lived in Kings Beach prior to going to Carson City for about 35 years and was well known and loved.

Tom Kavanaugh is back at Incline Village and the Valley Bank. He was transferred back from Reno where he has been the past several months.

We understand that Jetta is on an iceberg and can't write. Well?

Ceclia "Ce Ce" Ried of Kings Beach has assumed ownership of the Cal-Neva Beauty Salon at Cal-Neva Lodge. CeCe has been at the shop since it opened last year and we can't think of a nicer birthday present since she celebrated her day February 18. Good luck and happy birthday, CeCe.

Also celebrating a birthday Feb. 18 is Lee Cunningham of Incline Village. Ted Draney observed his natal day on the 13th at dinner with wife, Pearl. Bethel Van Tassel has her day on the 19th while J. C. Jordan will celebrate on the 24th with wife, Inez.

Irene Kaiser has moved from Inlcine Village to Southern California. Irene has lived at Tahoe the past ten years, and worked at the Incline post office the past four years, from which she is being transferred.

Irene wishes to extend thanks to the residents for their many courtesies during the time she was with the post office which association she deeply appreciated. She plans to return to Tahoe for vacation time. Good luck, Irene.

Diane and Freddie Schultz and son, Eric, have move from Seattle to Costa Mesa, according to his parents, Alysmae and Fred Schultz, of Incline. Freddie is with Western Airlines and was promoted and transferred to his new location.

Harry S. Hooper of Kings Beach and Reno attended the U.C. Medical Center symposium on drug interaction in San Francisco last week. Harry has been a registered and practicing pharmacist for the past 42 years.

Joe Tamblyn, young son of Marlea and Jill Tamblyn of Kings Beach, is home recuperating from his tonsilectomy at St. Mary's Hospital in Reno last week.

Tudi and Ed Malley are back home at Incline Beach after a trip to the east coast. They visited their daughter and her husband, Mary K and Jack Dooling in Wykoff, N.J. Daughter and husband, Mary T. and Dan Parks enplaned from Kansas City to join them in New York before their return home.

Sharon and Hewitt Clark of Incline Village enjoyed a trip to Fort Bragg where they visited Hewitt's father. From Fort Bragg they went down the coast to La Jolla for a few day relaxation before returning home.

Virginia Hill enjoyed a three weeks vacation which included trips to Morro Bay, Las Vegas and San Francisco. Marlie and Bill Tessler of Reno, her daughter and son in law, enplaned to Las Vegas for a visit while she was there.

Employes of the club presented Ray with a belated January 28 birthday party on his return.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Day of Walnut Creek are visiting their daughter and family, Ginny and Gene Parsons, and children, Paul, Stanley, Valarie and Lonnie at Incline Village. Accompanying the Days to Tahoe was Whitey Samanda of Concord.

Irene Kaiser has moved from Incline Village to Southern California. Irene has lived at Tahoe the past ten years and worked at the post office at Incline the last four years. She is being transferred by the postal department.

Irene wishes to thank her many friends, whom she will miss, and residents for their many courtesies extended her during the time she was at the post office. She deeply appreciated the association and will return for vacations at Tahoe. Good luck, Irene.

Freddie and Diane Schultz and son, Eric, have moved from Seattle to Costa Mesa according to his parents, Alysmae and Fred Schultz of Incline Village. Freddie is with Western Airlines and is happy with his new promotion.

Harry S. Hooper of Kings Beach and Reno attended the U.S. Medical Center symposium on drug interaction in San Francisco last week. Harry has been a registered and practicing pharmicist for 42 years.

Reading of the death of English writer and philosopher, Bertrand Russell, in England at the age of 97 brings to mind the fact that he spent a period of time at Fallen Leaf Lake. While he meditated at this quiet beautiful lake he did a lot of his writing.

Ray Smith To Address Unit

Raymond M. Smith, well known Reno land planner and environmentalist, will be principal speaker at the annual meeting of Sierra Nevada section of the American Chemical Society, it was announced today by Dr. Robert Morris, program chairman and chairman-elect for the Section.

The meeting, which also is a ladies night function due to the general interest in Mr. Smith's subject, will be held at the Sir Loins restaurant in Sparks February 20, with dinner at 6 p.m.

Smith's address will review his recently completed Nevada Lake Tahoe General Plan and cover also the growing national and regional attitudes for stronger ecological considerations in regional planning approaches, at both the public and private levels.

Leeway In Sex Education

SACRAMENTO (AP) - Legislation to give local school districts more leeway in presenting sex education courses was introduced Monday by Sen. Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento.

Rodda's measure narrows the definition of instruction materials about sex education and permits the districts to communicate with parents in notes sent home with students as well as by mail.

Rodda said his bill gives local districts more autonomy in making materials available for parent's examination.

Racial Strife Shuts Las Vegas High

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - A morning of racial turbulence Monday led to the closing of Las Vegas High School after three girls were hospitalized and five students suspended.

The trouble was apparently connected with the beating of a white student after a basketball game last Friday, allegedly by blacks, a school official said.

About 40 white students marched into the basement of a classroom building before school Monday and attacked several black students.

The white students were herded into a classroom by school officials and about 30 police called to the campus. Five students were immediately suspended and Principal Vince Cortney said he expected 10 others will be suspended.

Three white girls were set upon by a group of black girls when students were released for their first break at midmorning.

School officials asked police to make arrests at the school, but juvenile authorities declined to do so, said Charles Fleming, information officer for the Clark County School District.

No decision was made on reopening the school.

Executives Are Avoiding Urban Employment

NEW YORK (AP) - Crime, pollution, congestion, poor transportation, long hours of commuting, poor schools. These generally head the list of reasons why many rising young executives avoid transfers to some big cities.

Add now to the list a related factor that is commonly overlooked but which is basic to the decision: The upgrading of family life and the relative diminishing of the company's power over a man's private affairs.

This is the contention of Dr. Eugene Jennings of Michigan State University, a psychologist, executive counselor and management consultant. He calls today's sharpest young executives co-worlders. Their predecessors were one-worlders.

He explains in this manner: Today's competent young people are trying to rationalize living in two distinct environments: family life and business life. The old Philadelphia mainliner managed it: he never talked business at the dinner table.

Most executives, however, have permitted the company to dominate their lives. The company told them what clubs to join. It even passed judgment on the wife. It demanded that the executive devote his private hours to many community activities "because it's good business."

The tendency is for many of today's so-called early arrivals, or high ranking executives who are still in their 30s, to rebel against this pattern and attempt to keep one life from impinging on the other.

"What good does it do," they are inclined to ask, "to belong to 21 worthy causes that occupy all your evenings and then discover that your son is on dope?"

The old, one-world executive believed in clubbiness. He joined exclusive clubs to be with his kind. The new executive replaces this with intimacy; he has a few personal friends rather than many acquaintances from the business world.

The new executive, rather than spreading his time and energies among 21 worthy causes, chooses one that is suited to his intrinsic talents and then devotes lots of time to it.

There are many distinctions. The old executive liked publicity for the good of his business. The new executive has family secrets; he desires privacy to the extent that coworkers might not know where he spends his summers.

The return to family life and privacy, Jennings believes, is motivated partly by the realization that the company man of the 1950s who never had time for his family is reaping a harvest of personal chaos and guilt.

Perhaps the companies also are exerting less pressures and permitting the emphasis on family. Corporations once could indulge themselves in assessing a man's personality, manners, school ties and so on. Now they need performers, because modern capitalism demands efficiency and productivity.

The new executive also may have a great deal more confidence than the older type. He knows he has marketable competency, or abilities that can be sold for a good price should he choose to leave his present company.

Some of the most paternalistic companies of the past, Jennings believes, are now promoting the notion of co-worldliness because they realize that an executive who spreads his energies and ruins his family life is less productive.

Actress Recovers

MUNICH, Germany (AP) - Israeli actress Hanna Meron, wounded during a terrorist attack on El Al Airline passengers at Riem airport last Tuesday, will not be forced to undergo amputation of her left leg after all, doctors have decided.

Miss Meron was struck by gernade fragments.

Barkley Meat Company Moves Headquarters To New, Modern Office And Processing Facility

Barkley Meat Co., formerly known as Tahoe Sierra Market, Inc., has changed locations and moved into the new modern meat processing facility – the most up–to–date business of its kind in the Western United States.

Barkley Meat Co. is the only locally owned and operated meat processing plant. Under the name of Tahoe Sierra Market, it has been in existence at South Lake Tahoe for more than 30 years.

David Barkley, vice president and manager of the company, points out that the plant turns out only choice, top quality meat products that have been processed under the most sanitary, efficient and scientifically controlled conditions.

The meat arrives from selected areas across the United States after it has been killed and quartered. The carcass beef is fabricated at the local facility and made ready for market.

The meat is handled as little as possible to help it retain its freshness and juiciness. All processes are conducted in refrigerated rooms where the temperature is maintained at 34 degrees.

All products being shipped from the Barkley plant are inspected by an officer of the United States Department of Agriculture who maintains an office within the building.

Officers in the company, in addition to Barkley, are Fenn Barkley, president, who owned and operated Tahoe Sierra Market before it became Barkley Meat Co., and Ruth Barkley, secretary.

David Barkley, who says that grand opening activities for the new facility will be held in early spring, is a long–time resident of South Lake Tahoe. He first went to school in a small one–room building that housed 32 students in eight grades. He is now married and resides on the South Shore with his wife, Ann.

NEW FACE – Barkley Meat Co. is a new name for one of Lake Tahoe's oldest establishments, Tahoe Sierra Market Inc. The meat processing plant is now located off Lake Tahoe Boulevard past the "Y." The business has been in operation on the South Shore since the late 1930s.

Writing For Warwick Is Instinct For Hal David

Writing For Warwick Is Instinct For Hal David

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

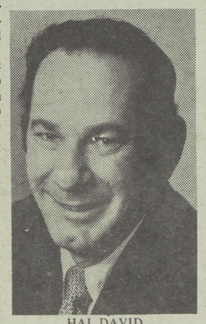
David says he doesn't mind being the least well-known name of the three. "But it would upset me if I didn't get my royalties."

Bacharach and David songs are contemporary rather than rock, David says. The lyric writer admits to being 48, though he wishes he didn't have to - "The kids will never buy anything of mine again" - but says in his own defense that his two teen-age sons keep him au courant.

Hal David and Burt Bacharach met at a music publishing house, where both were collaborating with other people. They tried writing a song together, and ever since seldom have collaborated with anybody but each other. They wrote a song for Dionne Warwick, "Don't Make Me Over," and produced the record on Scepter, and they have written most of their songs for her ever since. Bacharach still does most of her arrangements and produces her records, for the same record label.

David says that when he is writing lyrics he tailors them to Miss Warwick, without even thinking about it. "I know so well how she sings and how she is going to sound singing a phrase. I think very often I change things because I can hear her sound on it. But I don't think in terms of having to write certain words or phrases. It has become an instinct."

Bacharach and David have written one Broadway musical, "Promises, Promises." The original cast album is on United Artists. They took two songs out and replaced them during tryouts in Boston. "Loyal, Resourceful" gave way to "Our Little Secret," and it was decided that another song wasn't working out - just as Bacharach went into the hospital with pneumonia.



HAL DAVID

David says, "I was stuck without a composer. I must have written a dozen lyrics for a new song and the last one I wrote before Burt gout out of the hospital was the one I gave him." That was "I'll Never Fall in Love Again," in which the word pneumonia, on David's mind at the time, is rhymed in the next line with "phone yuh." Miss Warwick's single of that song was No. 13 and climbing on the best-selling chart Jan. 17.

Usually, Bacharach, who lives in California, and David, who lives on Long Island, write songs together. "I go out there for two weeks. We take a week off and then he flies to New York for two weeks.

"We've done songs on the phone. Ninety per cent of 'I Say a Little Prayer' was done on the phone," Miss Warwick had a million-selling single with that one.

"But we do most of our songs really together, sitting in a room. I'll have three or four ideas and he'll have some. We bounce them off each other and make a decision about what we're going to write by finding a strain or an idea that he loves and I love.

"We work on them more when we're alone.

"I think I work all the time except when I go away on actual vacations. Then I manage to just turn it off. The rest of the time I work seven days a week to some extent.

"I think it would be sheer madness to write with somebody difficult. I know Gilbert and Sullivan did it, but I think it'd be a terrible way to spend your life. It's more comfortable writing lyrics with someone you have a relationship with that's friendly and healthy; and each knows what the other is thinking before it's said."

David says he and Bacharach would like to do another Broadway musical. "In 'Promises' we wrote each song to convey an emotion or to be a piece of the plot or a character study. I never once thought in terms of this or that song becoming a hit.

"Anyway, I try to write what I like and assume a certain number of people will like what I like. On the basis of that; we get a certain amount of hits.

"Early in my career I thought in terms of hits. I didn't seem to get hits that way, so I decided if I'm going to write flops I might as well write flops I like. Then some of them became hits.

David wrote a couple of songs with composer John Barry for "On Her Majesty's Secret Service." Bacharach and David wrote "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head" for "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." B. J. Thomas sang it in the picture, and his single of it, on Scepter, arranged by Bacharach, went to No. 1 on the best-selling chart on Jan. 10, and stayed No. 1 on Jan. 17.

A book of Hal David lyrics, "What the World Needs Now and Other Love Lyrics," has been published by Trident. In the spring Random House will publish the text and lyrics of "Promises, Promises," and Simon and Schuster will publish "The Bacharach and David Songbook."

Anita Goes 'Mod'

Anita Louise, venerable film beauty, will make a rare television appearance guest-starring as Michael Cole's mother in an episode of the ABC Television Network's "The Mod Squad". The character of Cole's mother has never before been seen in the series.

In the segment, "Call Back Yesterday," to be aired later this seasnon, Miss Louise helps the squad expose a murder plot.

HARRAH'S STAR - Multi-talented performer John Davidson debuts at Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room with twice-nightly shows Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The singer's long list of credits include motion pictures, television, records, concerts and nightclubs.

THEY COME IN THREES - The singing Kane Triplets will appear with the John Davidson show the next two weekends, Feb. 20-22 and Feb. 27-28.

John Davidson Debuts At Harrah's Tahoe

Motion picture, television, recording and nightclub star John Davidson moves into Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room the next two weekends, Feb. 20-22 and Feb. 27-28.

Ventriloquist Willie Tyler and the Kane Triplets, a trio of female vocalists, balance the bill this weekend. Another ventriloquist team, Aaron and Freddie replaces Tyler the following weekend.

The 25-year-old Davidson recently completed a three-week stint in the Century Plaza's plush Westside Room in Los Angeles.

"Davison sings modern songs with a modern beat, but with the style that made Crosby, Como and Sinatra entertainment giants," lauded John Scott of the LA Times, reviewing his performance.

Variety Magazine also favored him with a praising pen: "John Davidson has everything going for him - name, appeal, magnetism and a style which is fresh for today's younger generation, yet with a projection that is reminiscent of the top performers of yesteryear.

"He paces brilliantly, shifts from standup offerings to sitdowns with the guitar and banjo and ingratiates himself with the patrons like very few in his age category."

Despite his young age, Davidson's show business travels already read like an odyssey.

In October, 1967, he was host and star of his first TV special, "John Davidson at Notre Dame" for ABC.

That same fall his first starring motion picture, "The Happiest Millionaire," was released. It also starred Fred MacMurray.

Two years ago his varied talents were on display when he hosted "Class of '68" for the "Kraft Music Hall."

More recently he has toured the country both as a nightclub and concert stage star, as well as making public appearances at top college campuses.

Several years ago Davidson was signed to an exclusive recording contract with Columbia Records.

His top-selling albums included "A Kind of Hush" and "The Time of My Life." The latter celebrated 25 weeks as a nation-wide best-seller.

At about the same time Walt Disney got his name on a contract for two motion pictures, followed by a pact with ABC-TV.

On the nitery trail, Davidson has logged appearances at the Eden Roc in Miami, the Shoreham in Washington, the Maramor in Columbus, the Latin Casino in New Jersey, and many more.

He was signed by Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas to appear a minimum of three weeks a year for five years. His first appearance at the club with Jack Benny set attendance records.

On Sunday, Mar. 8, Kirby will introduce Harrah's newly implemented times for dinner and cocktail shows. The dinner show will begin at 5:30 p.m. (seating 3:30 p.m.) while the cocktail show gets underway at 9 p.m. (seating 8 p.m.).

Political Guide

NBC-TV's Dean Martin says that with so many actors winning political office, the best way to find out what's happening in California politics is to look it up in the television log.

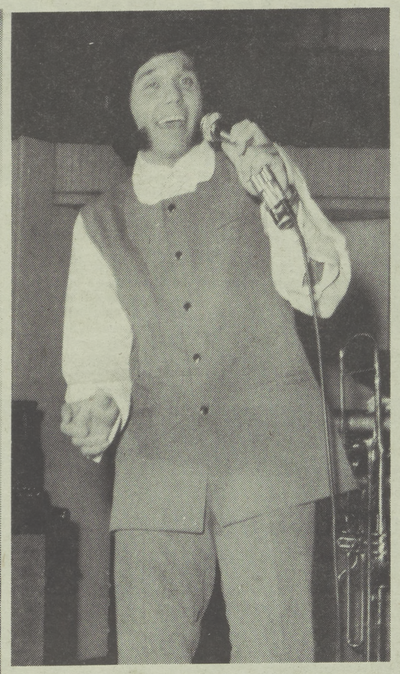
DOUBLE BILL - "Smilin' Sam" Butera returns to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret Feb. 19 along with the explosive Witnesses. The popular saxist-singer recently completed a successful one-week stint in Harrah's Casino Cabaret in Reno. Youthful, free-wheeling Jim Burgett also brings his hard-hitting sound to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret for three weeks beginning Feb. 19.



Butera, Burgett Return To Stateline Cabaret

Sam Butera, the thinking man's sax player, returns to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret for three weeks Feb. 19 along with the Witnesses.

Local product Jim Burgett also begins a three-week engagement Feb. 19 in the lounge.

The young singer has been plying his trade in the Lake Tahoe area for several years now. Burgett appears at Harrah's Tahoe and Reno nearly six months out of the year.

Fats Domino and Johnny Tillotson share headline chores for three weeks beginning Mar. 12.

'Crusade' Abroad

Vocalist Norma Zimmer who appears on the ABC Television's "The Lawrence Welk Show", plans to go to Germany in April to sing with the Billy Graham Crusade.

Goofy Start

Mini interview with Pamela Rodgers, pretty comedienne on NBC-TV's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In." Pamela says: "At age 11, I stood 5 feet 8 and weighed all of 90 pounds. I walked in a slump. Every boy only way people would like me was if I acted goofy and funny. And that's what I did."

Wayne Newton Joins Durante

With Singer Wayne Newton as special guest star and Tony Randall and Senor Wences as guest stars, the ABC Television Network's "Jimmy Durante Presents the Lennon Sisters Hour" takes viewers back to vaudeville days Saturday, Feb. 28.

Dressed as an old-time medicine man, Jimmy opens the hour of comedy and song with a pitch to the citizens of "Muckrak," Minn., to buy his wares.

"It's not guaranteed to make you well," he assures them, but will "make being sick more fun."

Jimmy then introduces the four Lennon Sisters who sing "There's the Latest News" and "There's a Meetin' Here Tonight," followed by Jimmy singing "One of Those Songs."

JUNIPER DUO – Buckley and Collins, two young men full of comedy and music, entertain nightly in the Juniper Lounge of Hotel Sahara–Tahoe where they are making a return engagement for an indefinite length of time.

COMEDY CHARACTERS - The Jets have zoomed back into the spotlight of Sahara-Tahoe's Juniper Lounge where they keep audiences rocking with laughter with the hilarious comedy routines. The Jets are also outstanding musically and can perform with the best acts in the business. Sharing the Juniper stage with the Jets are Al Belo and his bevy of beauties and Frankie Fanelli.

Helen O'Connell To Win Date

Miss O'Connell made the songs "Green Eyes" and "Tangerine" famous in the '30s while singing with the Jimmy Dorsey band and co-hosted the Today Show for four years.

Van Dyke Narration To Introduce Movie

Dick Van Dyke will be guest narrator for "Born Free," award-winning motion picture version of Joy Adamson's international best-seller about a lion cub born in the wilds of Keny but raised to maturity by a devoted human "family," when it is broadcast as a special two-hour color presentation, Sunday, Feb. 22 on the CBS Television Network.

Van Dyke will introduce the various segments of the film and will add comments on the background of the original book and the filming of the motion picture.

Set against the lonely, rugged and magnificent background of Kenya, the extraordinary motion picture stars Bill Travers and Virginia McKenna, British husband-and-wife acting team, as George and Joy Adamson, the game warden and his wife who share their home and lives with a captivating young lioness.

Fame is not new to comedienne Lily Tomlin, who made her debut recently on "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" over NBC-TV. While Lily was awaiting word on an off-Broadway role she later won, she twice was named Waitress of the Week while serving at Howard Johnson's on 49th St. and Broadway.

ROYAL ENTERTAINMENT - Prince Kawhohi and the Greenwood Brothers are appearing at Harvey's Resort Hotel, through March 9.

Prince Kawohi Joins Lineup

Headlining the Theatre Lounge at Harvey's Resort Hotel through Feb. 26 is the Phil Campos-Renee Noel Show. Alternating will be Prince Kawohi with the Greenwood Brothers, through March 9. Also appearing in the Theatre Lounge are Vanda and the Del Mars through Feb. 23 and the Osaka To Me group through March 18.

Phil Campos has an exceptional singing voice and has long been noted as a New York favorite, having performed as a folk singer in various concerts at Carnegie Hall, appeared in several radio and television commercials for Gallo Wine, and between singing dates he he has chalked up credits as an actor in Dragnet, Wagon Train and Badge 714. He has toured the Orient three times, appeared on a TV special with the Christy Minstrels and with Vic Damon's Summer Show.

Renee Noel, appearing with Phil Campos, is an earthy, natural down-to-earth blond girl singer who projects like crazy and who sings exceptionally well, is definitely unusual and hard to find. She has a husky, throaty voice which she knows how to use without overdoing it and she possesses a terrific sense of rhythm.

Prince Kawohi and the Greenwood Brothers are a treat to watch. The Prince sings, dances and plays the steel guitar and was formerly with the Harry Owens Show.

Vanda and the Del Mars have an approach to the new sound and the new look. Vanda, a fresh, young singer vocalist has been featured in some of the top clubs in the West. She not only sings well, but has a most pleasing appearance. Combining the new songs of today plus the commercial tunes of yesterday you have the sound of Vanda and the Del Mars. They are versatile not only in Rock 'n Roll but on all the current tunes.

Opening in the Theatre Lounge Feb. 24 in the exciting Rene' Paulo with is quartet of unique and accomplished musicians. They can perform and present any tune or request with a flair only master musicians can lend, whether it be Bach, rock, soul or a lilting tune from their island homeland.

Pat Gives Pat

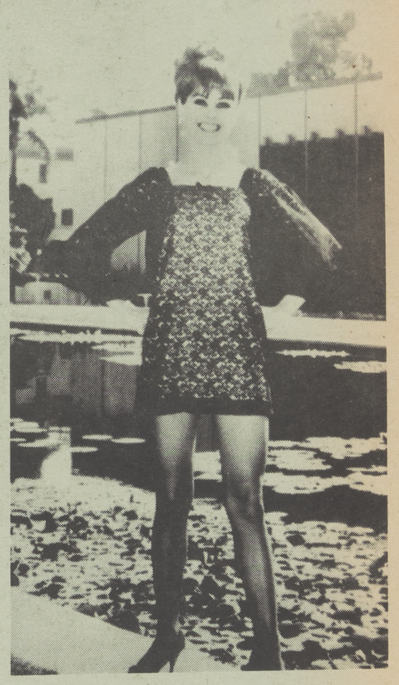
Comedy stars - like the rest of us - have their own comedy favorites. Pat Paulsen, star of the ABC Television Network's "Pat Paulsen's Half a Comedy Hour" names Charlie Chaplin as his all-time favorite. It is no small coincidence, perhaps, that many TV critics and viewers have likened Paulsen's low-key comedic style to the Chaplinesque idiom.

IRS Role

Jay Jostyn, who played the title role in "Mr. District Attorney," for years one of radio's most popular drama shows, will be seen as a U. S. Internal Revenue Service official whose activities are in vestigated by a Senate subcommittee on "Green Acres" Saturday, Feb. 28 on the CBS Television Network.

Real Officers

Bona fide police officers were recruited for the chase sequences in "Hunters Are For Killing," which will have its world premiere on "CBS Thursday Night Movies" Thursday, March 12 (9:00-11:00 PM, PT) in color on the CBS Television Network. The officers were given permission to double as actors for the Cinema Center 100 production by the Napa County Sheriff's Office and the St. Helena Police Department. The picture was filmed in its entirety in that Northern California wine country.



NEW GROUP - Vanda & the Del Mars, featuring Vanda, a fresh young vocalist, and three young talented men, have a new sound, new look and a fresh approach. They are appearing in the Theatre Loung at Harvey's Resort Hotel through Feb. 23.

Oscar Show Again On ABC

The 42nd annual awards presentation of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, to be televised live and in color over the ABC Television Network Tuesday, April 7, 7 p.m., PST.

This year the show will again be held at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilian of the Los Angeles County Music Center, where Hollywood's motion picture elite will gather to honor their peers.

The 1970 Academy Awards will mark the 10th consecutive year that the event has been telecast by ABC.

On The Cover

An aerial view of Fallen Leaf Lake taken earlier this month has the look of spring. Not long after the photo was taken by Tribune photographer Bob Patterson a series of storms edged over the Sierra Nevada leaving a touch of white and the appearance of a real February winter.

Writing For Waterwick Is Inspiring For Hal Dayid

No Substitute For Realism In Race Film

When producer Roy Huggins undertook the filming of "The Challengers," story of Grand Prix auto racing and the men and women whose lives are affected by it, he insisted on absolute authenticity. He obtained the services of Joseph Alves and Nick Dio, both formula II racing drivers whose knowledge of cars and auto racing is extensive.

Alves was technical advisor on the film, which will have its world premiere on "The CBS Friday Night Movies" on Friday Feb. 20 in color on the CBS Television Network.

Hired to assist him was Johnny Parsons, winner of the Indianapolis 500. Parsons also built two cars used in crash sequences for "The Challengers."

One of the problems facing Huggins was finding a suitable race track for the filming. His first choice, California's Riverside Raceway, was fully booked for automobile and tire testing. Finally, filming took place at the Paramount Ranch where the track had to be completely built.

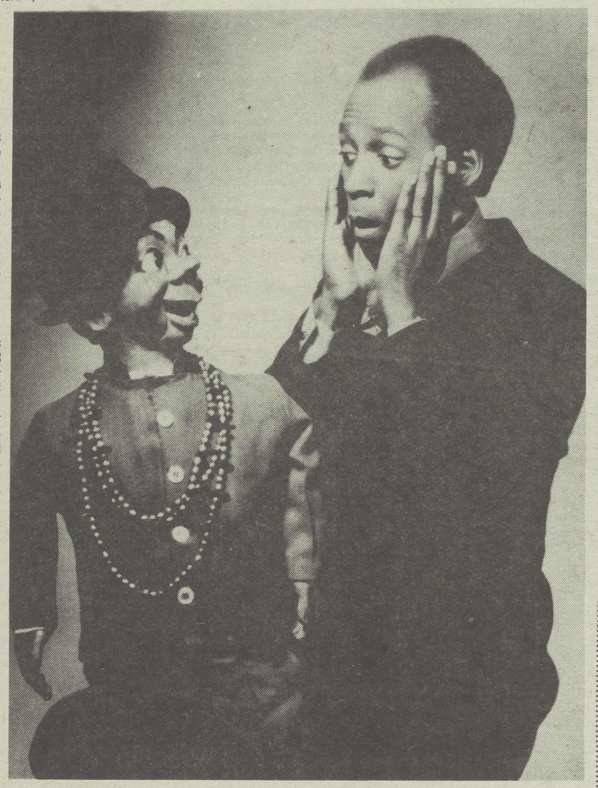
It was also necessary to employ a full-time team of mechanics to take care of constant repairs and tune-ups. Racing cars are "tempermental machines," especially when they are driven only for short distances.

Proper racing sounds were obtained by placing a tape recorder on the floor of each car as it was driven around the track. Consequently, the engine noises that the audience will hear are identical to those that the driver hears during a race. And to photograph the various racing sequences, a special high-speed camera car was rigged so it could follow the fast action of the cars as they sped around the oval track.

Nick Dio was responsible for teaching the film's stars - Darren McGavin, Nico Minardos and Sean Garrison - how to drive racing cars, which unlike ordinary automobiles, require special handling. It was up to Dio to teach the three actors all the professional tricks of the trade.

Aside from the hazards of driving, however, Garrison was faced with an even more Harrowing problem. During a sequence showing him recovering from crash injuries, the actor had to take a dip in a swimming pool. The scene was schepool, which was located on the studio's back lot, registered a temperature of 34 degrees.

This "dip" turned out to be a greater challenge to the star of "The Challengers" than zooming around the race track at speeds of over 100 miles an hour.



IN SOUTH SHORE ROOM - Willie Tyler and Lester, a ventriloquist act, will bolster the John Davison show at Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room this weekend, Feb. 20-22.

Camden, Maine Perfect Site For Movie Filming

When the late Jerry Wald was scouting around for location sites to be used in the production of the motion picture "Peyton Place," the setting he finally chose was approximately 3,700 miles from Hollywood. The place was the beautiful little township of Camden, Me.

"Actually," Wald explained at the time, "you could find a thousand small towns that would have served equally well. But what we wanted was a strong New England flavor so that the players themselves would feel they were performing against an authentic background."

The film "Peyton Place" will be seen for the first ime on television as a two-part presentation on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" Thursday, Feb. 26 and "The CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday, Feb. 27 (9:00-00:00 PM, PT) both nights, in color on the CBS Television Network.

Founded in the middle of the 18th century as a harbor home for Yankee traders plying the waterways of the world, Camden has remained an unspoiled, exquisite example of the typical New England coastal town.

A fashionable shop in the center of the town was exactly the kind of business establishment the script called for as Constance MacKenzie's (Lana Turner) store. A 100-year-old white painted New England house on Chestnut Street became the MacKenzie residence.

Cambden's outdoor amphitheatre was the perfect setting for the film's graduation scene and for the Waster morning service sequence. The offices of the Camden Herald became the headquarters of the Peyton Place Herald, and a woolen mill in town, simply by changing its sign, became the Harrington Mills.

What was even more gratifying to producer Wald was the fact that when he needed extras for some of the scenes, it wasn't necessary to import them from Hollywood or New York because the natives really looked like New Englanders.

Canadian Singers Popular With Nevada Lodge Crowds

The group has entertained in England, as well as in Canada, and is slated to go to Australia later this year. Las Vegas was the first stop on this American tour.

Murray Cameron is a 24-year-old from Calgary who heads the group (and organized it) and plays guitar. Brock Smith, also a Calgarian, but only 22, is the lead guitarist.

Merry-Jo is lead singer. She is pretty, 23, comes from Lethbridge and seems to be the group's musical pivot. Newest member of the quartet is 22-year-old Sandy Snowdon, a beauty on drums who last year taught physical education at Lethbridge University.

All four of these fresh, lively musicians enjoy their music making and it shows when they're on stage. They give an exciting performance that is a delightful mixture of folk-rock, jug band, hillbilly, blues, pop and old fashioned razzmatazz.

Writing For Warwick Is Instinct For Hal David

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

David says he doesn't mind being the least well-known name of the three. "But it would upset me if I didn't get my royalties."

Bacharach and David songs are contemporary rather than rock, David says. The lyric writer admits to being 48, though he wishes he didn't have to - "The kids will never buy anything of mine again" - but says in his own defense that his two teen-age sons keep him au courant.

Hal David and Burt Bacharach met at a music publishing house, where both were collaborating with other people. They tried writing a song together, and ever since seldom have collaborated with anybody but each other. They wrote a song for Dionne Warwick, "Don't Make Me Over," and produced the record on Scepter, and they have written most of their songs for her ever since. Bacharach still does most of her arrangements and produces her records, for the same record label.

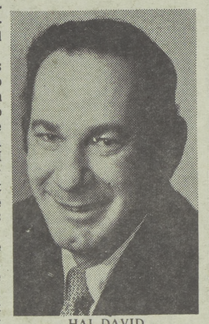
David says that when he is writing lyrics he tailors them to Miss Warwick, without even thinking about it. "I know so well how she sings and how she is going to sound singing a phrase. I think very often I change things because I can hear her sound on it. But I don't think in terms of having to write certain words or phrases. It has become an instinct."

Bacharach and David have written one Broadway musical, "Promises, Promises." The original cast album is on United Artists. They took two songs out and replaced them during tryouts in Boston. "Loyal, Resourceful" gave way to "Our Little Secret," and it was decided that another song wasn't working out - just as Bacharach went into the hospital with pneumonia.

David says, "I was stuck without a composer. I must have written a dozen lyrics for a new song and the last one I wrote before Burt gout out of the hospital was the one I gave him." That was "I'll Never Fall in Love Again," in which the word pneumonia, on David's mind at the time, is rhymed in the next line with "phone yuh." Miss Warwick's single of that song was No. 13 and climbing on the best-selling chart Jan. 17.

Usually, Bacharach, who lives in California, and David, who lives on Long Island, write songs together. "I go out there for two weeks. We take a week off and then he flies to New York for two weeks.

"We've done songs on the phone. Ninety per cent of 'I Say a Little Prayer' was done on the phone," Miss Warwick had a million-selling single with that one.



HAL DAVID

"But we do most of our songs really together, sitting in a room. I'll have three or four ideas and he'll have some. We bounce them off each other and make a decision about what we're going to write by finding a strain or an idea that he loves and I love.

"We work on them more when we're alone.

"I think I work all the time except when I go away on actual vacations. Then I manage to just turn it off. The rest of the time I work seven days a week to some extent.

"I think it would be sheer madness to write with somebody difficult. I know Gilbert and Sullivan did it, but I think it'd be a terrible way to spend your life. It's more comfortable writing lyrics with someone you have a relationship with that's friendly and healthy; and each knows what the other is thinking before it's said."

David says he and Bacharach would like to do another Broadway musical. "In 'Promises' we wrote each song to convey an emotion or to be a piece of the plot or a character study. I never once thought in terms of this or that song becoming a hit.

"Anyway, I try to write what I like and assume a certain number of people will like what I like. On the basis of that, we get a certain amount of hits.

"Early in my career I thought in terms of hits. I didn't seem to get hits that way, so I decided if I'm going to write flops I might as well write flops I like. Then some of them became hits.

David wrote a couple of songs with composer John Barry for "On Her Majesty's Secret Service." Bacharach and David wrote "Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head" for "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." B. J. Thomas sang it in the picture, and his single of it, on Scepter, arranged by Bacharach, went to No. 1 on the best-selling chart on Jan. 10, and stayed No. 1 on Jan. 17.

A book of Hal David lyrics, "What the World Needs Now and Other Love Lyrics," has been published by Trident. In the spring Random House will publish the text and lyrics of "Promises, Promises," and Simon and Schuster will publish "The Bacharach and David Songbook."

HARRAH'S STAR - Multi-talented performer John Davidson debuts at Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room with twice-nightly shows Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The singer's long list of credits include motion pictures, television, records, concerts and nightclubs.

THEY COME IN THREES - The singing Kane Triplets will appear with the John Davidson show the next two weekends, Feb. 20-22 and Feb. 27-28.

John Davidson Debuts At Harrah's Tahoe

Motion picture, television, recording and nightclub star John Davidson moves into Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room the next two weekends, Feb. 20-22 and Feb. 27-28.

Ventriloquist Willie Tyler and the Kane Triplets, a trio of female vocalists, balance the bill this weekend. Another ventriloquist team, Aaron and Freddie replaces Tyler the following weekend.

The 25-year-old Davidson recently completed a three-week stint in the Century Plaza's plush Westside Room in Los Angeles.

"Davison sings modern songs with a modern beat, but with the style that made Crosby, Como and Sinatra entertainment giants," lauded John Scott of the LA Times, reviewing his performance.

Variety Magazine also favored him with a praising pen: "John Davidson has everything going for him - name, appeal, magnetism and a style which is fresh for today's younger generation, yet with a projection that is reminiscent of the top performers of yesteryear.

"He paces brilliantly, shifts from standup offerings to sitdowns with the guitar and banjo and ingratiates himself with the patrons like very few in his age category."

Despite his young age, Davidson's show business travels already read like an odyssey.

In October, 1967, he was host and star of his first TV special, "John Davidson at Notre Dame" for ABC.

That same fall his first starring motion picture, "The Happiest Millionaire," was released. It also starred Fred MacMurray.

Two years ago his varied talents were on display when he hosted "Class of '68" for the "Kraft Music Hall."

More recently he has toured the country both as a nightclub and concert stage star, as well as making public appearances at top college campuses.

Several years ago Davidson was signed to an exclusive recording contract with Columbia Records.

His top-selling albums included "A Kind of Hush" and "The Time of My Life." The latter celebrated 25 weeks as a nation-wide best-seller.

At about the same time Walt Disney got his name on a contract for two motion pictures, followed by a pact with ABC-TV.

On the nitery trail, Davidson has logged appearances at the Eden Roc in Miami, the Shoreham in Washington, the Maramor in Columbus, the Latin Casino in New Jersey, and many more.

He was signed by Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas to appear a minimum of three weeks a year for five years. His first appearance at the club with Jack Benny set attendance records.

On Sunday, Mar. 8, Kirby will introduce Harrah's newly implemented times for dinner and cocktail shows. The dinner show will begin at 5:30 p.m. (seating 3:30 p.m.) while the cocktail show gets underway at 9 p.m. (seating 8 p.m.).

Political Guide

NBC-TV's Dean Martin says that with so many actors winning political office, the best way to find out what's happening in California politics is to look it up in the television log.

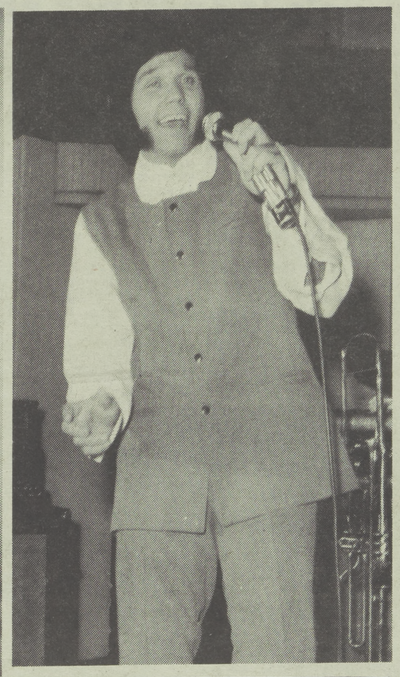
DOUBLE BILL - "Smilin' Sam" Butera returns to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret Feb. 19 along with the explosive Witnesses. The popular saxist-singer recently completed a successful one-week stint in Harrah's Casino Cabaret in Reno. Youthful, free-wheeling Jim Burgett also brings his hard-hitting sound to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret for three weeks beginning Feb. 19.



Goofy Start

Mini interview with Pamela Rodgers, pretty comedienne on NBC-TV's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In." Pamela says: "At age 11, I stood 5 feet 8 and weighed all of 90 pounds. I walked in a slump. Every boy only way people would like me was if I acted goofy and funny. And that's what I did."

Butera, Burgett Return To Stateline Cabaret

Sam Butera, the thinking man's sax player, returns to Harrah's Stateline Cabaret for three weeks Feb. 19 along with the Witnesses.

Local product Jim Burgett also begins a three-week engagement Feb. 19 in the lounge.

The young singer has been plying his trade in the Lake Tahoe area for several years now. Burgett appears at Harrah's Tahoe and Reno nearly six months out of the year.

Fats Domino and Johnny Tillotson share headline chores for three weeks beginning Mar. 12.

'Crusade' Abroad

Vocalist Norma Zimmer who appears on the ABC Television's "The Lawrence Welk Show", plans to go to Germany in April to sing with the Billy Graham Crusade.

Wayne Newton Joins Durante

With Singer Wayne Newton as special guest star and Tony Randall and Senor Wences as guest stars, the ABC Television Network's "Jimmy Durante Presents the Lennon Sisters Hour" takes viewers back to vaudeville days Saturday, Feb. 28.

Dressed as an old-time medicine man, Jimmy opens the hour of comedy and song with a pitch to the citizens of "Muckrak," Minn., to buy his wares.

"It's not guaranteed to make you well," he assures them, but will "make being sick more fun."

Jimmy then introduces the four Lennon Sisters who sing "There's the Latest News" and "There's a Meetin' Here Tonight," followed by Jimmy singing "One of Those Songs."

JUNIPER DUO – Buckley and Collins, two young men full of comedy and music, entertain nightly in the Juniper Lounge of Hotel Sahara–Tahoe where they are making a return engagement for an indefinite length of time.

COMEDY CHARACTERS - The Jets have zoomed back into the spotlight of Sahara-Tahoe's Juniper Lounge where they keep audiences rocking with laughter with the hilarious comedy routines. The Jets are also outstanding musically and can perform with the best acts in the business. Sharing the Juniper stage with the Jets are Al Belo and his bevy of beauties and Frankie Fanelli.

Helen O'Connell To Win Date

Miss O'Connell made the songs "Green Eyes" and "Tangerine" famous in the '30s while singing with the Jimmy Dorsey band and co-hosted the Today Show for four years.

Van Dyke Narration To Introduce Movie

Dick Van Dyke will be guest narrator for "Born Free," award-winning motion picture version of Joy Adamson's international best-seller about a lion cub born in the wilds of Keny but raised to maturity by a devoted human "family," when it is broadcast as a special two-hour color presentation, Sunday, Feb. 22 on the CBS Television Network.

Van Dyke will introduce the various segments of the film and will add comments on the background of the original book and the filming of the motion picture.

Set against the lonely, rugged and magnificent background of Kenya, the extraordinary motion picture stars Bill Travers and Virginia McKenna, British husband-and-wife acting team, as George and Joy Adamson, the game warden and his wife who share their home and lives with a captivating young lioness.

Fame is not new to comedienne Lily Tomlin, who made her debut recently on "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" over NBC-TV. While Lily was awaiting word on an off-Broadway role she later won, she twice was named Waitress of the Week while serving at Howard Johnson's on 49th St. and Broadway.

ROYAL ENTERTAINMENT - Prince Kawhohi and the Greenwood Brothers are appearing at Harvey's Resort Hotel, through March 9.

Prince Kawohi Joins Lineup

Headlining the Theatre Lounge at Harvey's Resort Hotel through Feb. 26 is the Phil Campos-Renee Noel Show. Alternating will be Prince Kawohi with the Greenwood Brothers, through March 9. Also appearing in the Theatre Lounge are Vanda and the Del Mars through Feb. 23 and the Osaka To Me group through March 18.

Phil Campos has an exceptional singing voice and has long been noted as a New York favorite, having performed as a folk singer in various concerts at Carnegie Hall, appeared in several radio and television commercials for Gallo Wine, and between singing dates he he has chalked up credits as an actor in Dragnet, Wagon Train and Badge 714. He has toured the Orient three times, appeared on a TV special with the Christy Minstrels and with Vic Damon's Summer Show.

Renee Noel, appearing with Phil Campos, is an earthy, natural down-to-earth blond girl singer who projects like crazy and who sings exceptionally well, is definitely unusual and hard to find. She has a husky, throaty voice which she knows how to use without overdoing it and she possesses a terrific sense of rhythm.

Prince Kawohi and the Greenwood Brothers are a treat to watch. The Prince sings, dances and plays the steel guitar and was formerly with the Harry Owens Show.

Vanda and the Del Mars have an approach to the new sound and the new look. Vanda, a fresh, young singer vocalist has been featured in some of the top clubs in the West. She not only sings well, but has a most pleasing appearance. Combining the new songs of today plus the commercial tunes of yesterday you have the sound of Vanda and the Del Mars. They are versatile not only in Rock 'n Roll but on all the current tunes.

Opening in the Theatre Lounge Feb. 24 in the exciting Rene' Paulo with is quartet of unique and accomplished musicians. They can perform and present any tune or request with a flair only master musicians can lend, whether it be Bach, rock, soul or a liting tune from their island homeland.

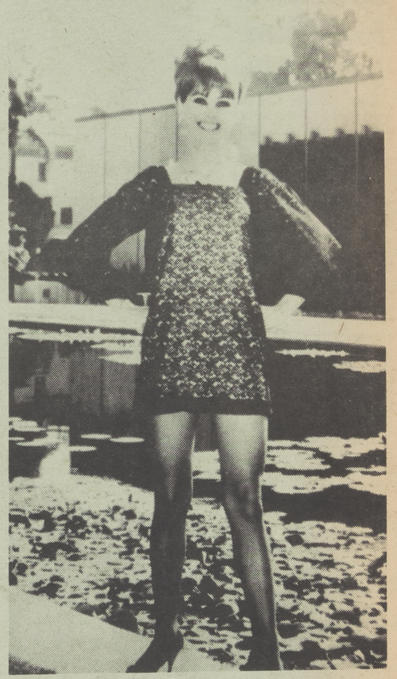
Pat Gives Pat

Comedy stars - like the rest of us - have their own comedy favorites. Pat Paulsen, star of the ABC Television Network's "Pat Paulsen's Half a Comedy Hour" names Charlie Chaplin as his all-time favorite. It is no small coincidence, perhaps, that many TV critics and viewers have likened Paulsen's low-key comedic style to the Chaplinesque idiom.

IRS Role

Jay Jostyn, who played the title role in "Mr. District Attorney," for years one of radio's most popular drama shows, will be seen as a U. S. Internal Revenue Service official whose activities are investigated by a Senate subcommittee on "Green Acres" Saturday, Feb. 28 on the CBS Television Network.



NEW GROUP - Vanda & the Del Mars, featuring Vanda, a fresh young vocalist, and three young talented men, have a new sound, new look and a fresh approach. They are appearing in the Theatre Loung at Harvey's Resort Hotel through Feb. 23.

Oscar Show Again On ABC

The 42nd annual awards presentation of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, to be televised live and in color over the ABC Television Network Tuesday, April 7, 7 p.m., PST.

This year the show will again be held at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilian of the Los Angeles County Music Center, where Hollywood's motion picture elite will gather to honor their peers.

The 1970 Academy Awards will mark the 10th consecutive year that the event has been telecast by ABC.

On The Cover

An aerial view of Fallen Leaf Lake taken earlier this month has the look of spring. Not long after the photo was taken by Tribune photographer Bob Patterson a series of storms edged over the Sierra Nevada leaving a touch of white and the appearance of a real February winter.

Real Officers

Bona fide police officers were recruited for the chase sequences in "Hunters Are For Killing," which will have its world premiere on "CBS Thursday Night Movies" Thursday, March 12 (9:00-11:00 PM, PT) in color on the CBS Television Network. The officers were given permission to double as actors for the Cinema Center 100 production by the Napa County Sheriff's Office and the St. Helena Police Department. The picture was filmed in its entirety in that Northern California wine country.

No Substitute For Realism In Race Film

When producer Roy Huggins undertook the filming of "The Challengers," story of Grand Prix auto racing and the men and women whose lives are affected by it, he insisted on absolute authenticity. He obtained the services of Joseph Alves and Nick Dio, both formula II racing drivers whose knowledge of cars and auto racing is extensive.

Alves was technical advisor on the film, which will have its world premiere on "The CBS Friday Night Movies" on Friday Feb. 20 in color on the CBS Television Network.

Hired to assist him was Johnny Parsons, winner of the Indianapolis 500. Parsons also built two cars used in crash sequences for "The Challengers."

One of the problems facing Huggins was finding a suitable race track for the filming. His first choice, California's Riverside Raceway, was fully booked for automobile and tire testing. Finally, filming took place at the Paramount Ranch where the track had to be completely built.

It was also necessary to employ a full-time team of mechanics to take care of constant repairs and tune-ups. Racing cars are "tempermental machines," especially when they are driven only for short distances.

Proper racing sounds were obtained by placing a tape recorder on the floor of each car as it was driven around the track. Consequently, the engine noises that the audience will hear are identical to those that the driver hears during a race. And to photograph the various racing sequences, a special high-speed camera car was rigged so it could follow the fast action of the cars as they sped around the oval track.

Nick Dio was responsible for teaching the film's stars - Darren McGavin, Nico Minardos and Sean Garrison - how to drive racing cars, which unlike ordinary automobiles, require special handling. It was up to Dio to teach the three actors all the professional tricks of the trade.

Aside from the hazards of driving, however, Garrison was faced with an even more Harrowing problem. During a sequence showing him recovering from crash injuries, the actor had to take a dip in a swimming pool. The scene was schepool, which was located on the studio's back lot, registered a temperature of 34 degrees.

This "dip" turned out to be a greater challenge to the star of "The Challengers" than zooming around the race track at speeds of over 100 miles an hour.

IN SOUTH SHORE ROOM - Willie Tyler and Lester, a ventriloquist act, will bolster the John Davison show at Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room this weekend, Feb. 20-22.

Camden, Maine Perfect Site For Movie Filming

When the late Jerry Wald was scouting around for location sites to be used in the production of the motion picture "Peyton Place," the setting he finally chose was approximately 3,700 miles from Hollywood. The place was the beautiful little township of Camden, Me.

"Actually," Wald explained at the time, "you could find a thousand small towns that would have served equally well. But what we wanted was a strong New England flavor so that the players themselves would feel they were performing against an authentic background."

The film "Peyton Place" will be seen for the first ime on television as a two-part presentation on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" Thursday, Feb. 26 and "The CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday, Feb. 27 (9:00-00:00 PM, PT) both nights, in color on the CBS Television Network.

Founded in the middle of the 18th century as a harbor home for Yankee traders plying the waterways of the world, Camden has remained an unspoiled, exquisite example of the typical New England coastal town.

A fashionable shop in the center of the town was exactly the kind of business establishment the script called for as Constance MacKenzie's (Lana Turner) store. A 100-year-old white painted New England house on Chestnut Street became the MacKenzie residence.

Cambden's outdoor amphitheatre was the perfect setting for the film's graduation scene and for the Waster morning service sequence. The offices of the Camden Herald became the headquarters of the Peyton Place Herald, and a woolen mill in town, simply by changing its sign, became the Harrington Mills.

What was even more gratifying to producer Wald was the fact that when he needed extras for some of the scenes, it wasn't necessary to import them from Hollywood or New York because the natives really looked like New Englanders.

Canadian Singers Popular With Nevada Lodge Crowds

The group has entertained in England, as well as in Canada, and is slated to go to Australia later this year. Las Vegas was the first stop on this American tour.

Murray Cameron is a 24-year-old from Calgary who heads the group (and organized it) and plays guitar. Brock Smith, also a Calgarian, but only 22, is the lead guitarist.

Merry-Jo is lead singer. She is pretty, 23, comes from Lethbridge and seems to be the group's musical pivot. Newest member of the quartet is 22-year-old Sandy Snowdon, a beauty on drums who last year taught physical education at Lethbridge University.

All four of these fresh, lively musicians enjoy their music making and it shows when they're on stage. They give an exciting performance that is a delightful mixture of folk-rock, jug band, hillbilly, blues, pop and old fashioned razzmatazz.
